Flower Show And Supper In Aid Of Red Cross Well Attended

Fine Quality of Exhibits Resulted in Keen Competition in The Various Classes

Stirling Community Hall was a scene of riotous colour and beauty on Thursday, August 26th, on the occasion of the ninth annual Flower Show sponsored by the local Horticultural Society. The exhibits were not as numerous as last year but the specimens of the different varieties were of an exceptional high quality.

No prizes were given this year and the usual donations for prizes along with the proceeds of the supper, amounting to approximately $115, will be turned over to the local Red Cross Society.

The arrangements for handling the various exhibits were all that could be desired and the whole show was one that reflected credit upon the society and one of which the officers and members may be justly proud. President E. Houchin and his assistants left nothing undone to make this year's event a success and are deeply grateful for the co-operation and assistance given them by the citizens of the village and surrounding community.

An attractive social event was the supper served by the members of the Stirling Red Cross in conjunction with the flower show.

SOME TALL CORN

A stalk of corn measuring nine ft. was displayed at this office by Thos. Andrews, Stirling R.R. 3, this week, and is conclusive proof that the present year has been a good one for this particular crop.

Wounded In Sicily

Word has been received that Chas. Carvin, who went overseas with the Stormont and Glengarry Highlanders, has been wounded in Sicily. Prior to enlistment, he was employed on the farm of the late Michael Shea, and his many friends in this district will be glad to learn that he is making satisfactory recovery from his wounds.

Bata Won First In Finals

Staging a thrilling three-run rally in the ninth inning, the Bata "Bombers" defeated Grimsby in the first game of the intermediate "C" softball finals 5-4 on the latter's home diamond yesterday. Down 3-0 at the end of the seventh inning, Bata scored two runs to their opponents' one in the eighth and three in the ninth. Beloit was on the mound for Grimsby and had 13 strikeouts to his credit, while Steacy and Ellis (in the 8th) divided the pitching duties for the winners, with the former having 8 strikeouts to his credit. The second game will be played at Batawa on Wednesday of next week.

Bowling Notes

Due to threatening weather, only eight entries showed up for the annual Ladies' Doubles Tournament at the local greens on Friday last. High honours for three wins went to a local rink, Mrs. R. Burgess and Mrs. H. R. Tompkins, skip, who received towels sets as prizes. A Campbellford rink, Mrs. W. Wiggins and Mrs. B. Taylor, skip, took second prize with two wins, and received bridge covers. Mrs. K. Elgie and Mrs. F. Jackman, skip, won high honours for one win. Cups and saucers were the prizes.

At Brighton Yesterday

Two rinks of Stirling bowlers attended the mixed rinks tournament in Brighton, yesterday afternoon but neither got into the money. Those attending were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitty, Mrs. F. Jackman and T. W. Solmes and Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Elliott and Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Patterson.

Attend Memorial Service

Several members of the Stirling Platoon of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regt. (R.F.) attended the annual decoration services under the auspices of Marmora Branch No. 237, Canadian Legion, held on Sunday.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Band under Lieut. W. F. Ketcheson, was present to furnish marches for the parade to the two cemeteries of the village. The parade was in charge of Lt.-Col. A. V. Yates, M.C., V.D.

Those who attended from here were:—Lt. C. A. Wells, Sgt. G. H. Alcombrack, Sgt. E. Fox, Cpl. B. Basford, Ptes. B. Tanner, R. Tullock, R. Jackman, G. Bailey, F. Stapley, G. Scott, G. Whitehead, Wm. Long, E. Daford, D. Galloway, A. Bateman, K. Belton.

Local Happenings of Interest About Town

Mrs. H. H. Alger returned home Tuesday, after spending the past month with relatives in Chicago.

Mr. C. McComb, Toronto, is a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jones, this week.

Mrs. Lillie Gummer, of 2nd Thurlow, was a week-end guest of Mrs. Jennet Utman.

Paul Hellwell, of the R.C.A.F., Toronto, spent the week-end with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. P. V. Hellwell.

Mr. G. H. Roberts and son, Roland, of Toronto, are spending this week at the home of Mr. J. Sarles.

Mrs. P. Broadhurst and son, left today for Truro, Nova Scotia, where she will join her husband.

Miss Margaret Gray is spending a few days this week with Miss Doris Pollock, Harold.

Mrs. John Spry, Harold and Jean Spry, of Wyandotte, Mich., returned home Tuesday, after visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Spry.

Mr. J. L. Good returned home Saturday, after spending the past month at the Cadet Camp at Niagara-on-the-Lake.

Sgt. and Mrs. Clarence West, of Pembroke, returned home on Monday, after attending the funeral of the former's uncle, J. N. West, on Sunday.

Miss Marion Richardson left on Wednesday for Hamilton, where she has secured a position on the staff of the W. H. Pollard Memorial School.

The Annual Junior Farmers' Field Day will be held at the Stirling Fair Grounds, on Monday, September 6th, at 1:30 p.m. There will be a softball tournament between Marmora, Rawdon, Hungerford and Sidney, followed by a picnic supper at 6:30. A dance will be held in the evening, music being supplied by an R.C.A.F. orchestra.

Now In Africa

Word was received on Monday by Mrs. R. Finkle that her son, Pte. Gilbert Finkle, serving with the Canadian Forces, was in Africa and in good health.

To Teach Near PETERBOROUGH

Stirling and district friends of Lewis Bird, a former teacher in Glen Ross school, will be interested to know that he has accepted a position as principal in a two-room school on the outskirts of Peterboro.

Former Resident Passes

The death of a former resident of this village in the person of Miss Ellen Phillips, occurred suddenly at the home of her niece, Miss Ellen Kennedy, in Toronto, on Tuesday of last week.

The late Miss Phillips was born in Madoc, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Phillips. Later her family moved to Stirling, where she conducted a millinery store for some time prior to leaving here over thirty years ago. Surviving are one sister, Mrs. Bowland, of Moosejaw, Sask.; two nieces, Mrs. R. Galloway and Miss Ellen Kennedy, Toronto, and two nephews, George and John Kennedy, also of Toronto. Funeral services took place on Thursday last, with interment in Prospect cemetery.

Bride-Elect Given Shower

On Wednesday evening, Mrs. Harold Baker was hostess to some forty guests at a well arranged miscellaneous shower in honour of Miss Lois Hay, one of the month's brides.

The evening was spent in playing Bingo, after which the bride-elect was given a seat of honour under an arch decorated by a shower of pink streamers, which fell from a watering can.

The guest of honour was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts, which were presented by the hostess assisted by Donna Stapley.

Lois voiced her appreciation and thanks to all, and a dainty lunch brought the evening to a close.

To Celebrate 87th Birthdays

Friends will join in extending congratulations to two of our best-known townsmen in the persons of Mr. Robert Eggleton, and Mr. F. T. Ward, who will celebrate their 87th birthdays, on Friday and Sunday, respectively.

Coming to Stirling some twenty-five years ago, Mr. Eggleton followed the occupation of carpenter and contractor until six years ago, and many of the buildings of the district are the result of his handiwork. Although not actively engaged in business his advice and assistance are frequently sought by the members of his family, who follow the same occupation. Despite his years, Mr. Eggleton enjoys good health and is deeply interested in every sphere of local activity.

Mr. Ward, who for over fifty years conducted a gents' furnishings business, before retiring a few years ago, is content to spend his leisure hours in reading and in the flower garden. He also evinces a keen interest in all the current happenings of the day.

RICHARDSON - SYMONS

On Wednesday, August 25th, the marriage of Marion Louise (Mervie) Symons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Symons, of Belleville to Gunner Douglas F. Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Richardson, Stirling, was solemnized at Havelock in a double ring ceremony by the Rev. S. A. Kemp who had also married the bride's parents. The bride was attired in her travelling suit of chocolate brown wool with matching accessories and corsage of Picardy gladioli and Bristol rose. Following the ceremony, the happy couple left on a trip to the Muskoka Lake district.

School Board In Monthly Session

Both Schools In Readiness For Opening on Tuesday
— New Seats For P.S. Here

The regular monthly meeting of the Stirling Board of Education was held in the High School on Monday evening. Dr. E. A. Carleton, chairman, presided and the following members were in attendance, J. B. Belshaw, D. May, H. R. Tompkins, N. E. Eggleton, C. I. Hatton and C. F. Lian.

A communication from the Department of Education relative to opening date of school, Sept. 7th, was received.

Mr. R. Hermiston addressed the Board relative to the supply of new books needed by the students, particularly in the High School. It was pointed out that the margin of profit was so small on many of the books that it didn't pay to overstock them. The Board agreed that the principals of the local schools be asked to furnish the local book dealers with all available information on the required number of books.

Mr. C. F. Lian, chairman of purchasing committee, reported some coal on hand in the Public School but none in the High School. He had been in touch with the local dealer, but no definite information as to when the coal would arrive was available.

In the absence of the chairman, H. R. Tompkins presented the report of the teachers' committee, which was adopted on motion of Messrs. Hatton and Belshaw.

J. B. Belshaw reporting for the property committee, stated Mr. Weir, the boiler inspector, had found the retort in High School boiler warped slightly and recommended that a new one be procured. The sewage systems in both schools had been tested and found in working order. New seats had also been procured for use in the public school. The young trees planted north of the school needed trimming and the Horticultural Society had agreed to assume the costs of having this work done, stated Mr. Belshaw.

The report was adopted on motion of Messrs. Tompkins and Eggleton. The following accounts were presented for payment by C. I. Hatton of the Finance Committee.

High School

Houston Co., $5.09; A. E. Strickland, $5.45; McElroy Hardware, $12.98; N. E. Eggleton, $3.66; News-Argus, $5.44; Telephone and postage, $5.15

Public School

A. E. Strickland, $12.15; C. A. Wells, rent, etc., garden plot, $17.25; McElroy Hardware, $2.20; 10 new desks, $87.00; N. E. Eggleton, $2.33.

Principal C. A. Wells stated that it was expected there would be approximately 160 pupils in attendance at the public school, which would take all available accommodation. He also reported some lumber on hand but suggested the Board procure a further supply.

Buys A Farm

Geo. Sarles, who has been residing on the property known as the "Rodgers" farm, on the Ridge Road, about two miles east of this village has purchased the farm of Thos. J. McFee. Lack of help is the reason given for selling by Mr. McGee.

OUR 64th BIRTHDAY

With this issue the News-Argus is commencing its sixty-fifth year. Established in 1879 by the late J. H. Thompson, it has served the interests of the community in the intervening years. A small town newspaper can only be as interesting as those who are its subscribers will assist in making it, and it has only been possible for the News-Argus to continue through the cooperation and loyal support of advertisers, correspondents, subscribers and friends. To them we wish to express our sincerest thanks and appreciation. The News-Argus is proud of being sixty-four years old, and in opening a new year we earnestly ask for a continuance of the loyal support and patronage of all, and trust that we will fully merit the same.

STIRLING FAIR COMING!

Don't forget that Stirling Fair, which will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 27th and 28th, is only a few weeks away, and now is the time for you to plan not only to attend, but to be an exhibitor. The Agricultural society sponsors the Fair entirely in the interests of the Farmers of the surrounding district and should be encouraged.

The directors in charge of the preparation of the list have spared no effort to make it attractive and the farmers may show their appreciation of their efforts by exhibiting their prize stock and vegetables. The ladies' section of the list is the same as last year, while the school sections have been revised. In addition to the regular prizes being offered by the society, there is the usual lengthy list of special prizes donated by outside firms and local citizens.

Altogether the prize list, which will be issued shortly, should prove popular with the exhibitors and the farmers and their wives as well as local citizens are urged to join the Agricultural Society and become an exhibitor.

SCHOOL BELLS TO RING AGAIN

School bells will soon ring again in Stirling and district, after summer vacation, and the boys and girls will again troop back to their studies and further education. At the public and High Schools in the Village, the opening will be on September 7th. Pupils who have been out of school since Easter and therefore missed the last two months of the school term will no doubt find themselves at a slight disadvantage for a while but strict application to their studies should overcome this.

At the public school the personnel of the staff will be the same, Miss M. Gray, Mrs. Glen Heath and Miss N. Montgomery, along with principal C. A. Wells, being in charge. Last year the staff, under the leadership of Principal Wells, had much success, and it is fully expected that the same high standard will be maintained throughout the coming year. While to the majority of those at the public school, school life will be nothing new, there will be those who will be just making a start in the long grind for an education leading from the Public School to University. For these beginners particularly, we trust their first impressions of school life may be pleasant and that they may grow to like their studies.

There has been one change in the staff at the High School, E. R. Munday, resigning, and being replaced by R. G. Paul. Misses B. Sandover-Sly, Ruth Whale and C. McDonald and Principal J. L. Good, are the other members of the staff. In past years this institution has had splendid results and many who hold high and responsible positions in different parts of Canada and even in the neighbouring Republic, can thank the local High School for the training received in student days. It has established an enviable reputation among the schools of the province and ranks high with officials of the Department of Education. The results obtained in Departmental examinations over a term of years have been a credit to the pupils and the staffs, and a source of pride to members of the Board of Education and citizens in general.

All the boys and girls of school age in the village and community should take advantage of their opportunities for obtaining an education at the local schools and be on hand on the opening date to begin their year's work. Parents are urged to co-operate with the teachers and see that their children not only start school on the first day but attend classes regularly throughout the year. Unless such co-operation is forthcoming, little excuse can be offered if your son or daughter fails to pass the examinations next mid-summer. It has been rightly said that the boys and girls of today are the nation-builders of tomorrow, and it is not beyond the realm of possibility that among those who start their education in Stirling this term there will be some of the great leaders of a few years hence.

GOOD TIME TO BUILD BUSINESS REPUTATION

From the Toronto Telegram we take the following pertinent remarks regarding the building of business reputation, which applies to practically everyone in business today.

Merchants, service-men and firms who strive to give faithful, honest and courteous service to their customers in these difficult days are building reputations that will bring them handsome returns in future years. Other business men, large and small, who allow their staffs to become careless and discourteous in this seller's market will have cause to regret it when normal times return. They will find their customers gone—lost to their competitor across the street who made an effort to give service, or if he found himself unable to do so frankly admitted it.

The average person to-day appreciates the difficulties of doing business—green help, shortages of goods and government controls—and is prepared to make allowances, but the storekeeper, plumber, roofer, furnace-man and servicer also has an obligation to play fair with the customer. If he is wise, for the continued success of his own business, he will do so.

Some business people and their staffs are so short-sighted that they are adopting the "take it or leave it" attitude. They are discourteous. They give promises of service which they fail to make good. Just at the present time they are in the driver's seat and they are giving an exhibition of "the public be damned." But some time there will be a sufficiency of help and plentiful supplies and these short-sighted people may then discover that their greatest lack will be customers. If the public remember their carelessness and discourtesy of these days, they will have little excuse for complaint. They will have brought it on themselves.

EDUCATION A GOOD INVESTMENT

The lad who leaves a $60-a-week war job to return to high school is not only making a wise investment in his own future, but he is also contributing very tangibly to the democracy in which he lives. While it is true that work in the war factories is of the sharpest possible importance at this time, it is no less true that development of a better, more tolerant, more intelligent society for the future is one of the things we fight for.

It is easy to understand the thoughts of a 17-year-old boy in a war plant. He has a year to manage before his probable induction in the Army. Shall he reap the unprecedented wages now available to him and at the same time make a direct contribution to the war effort, or shall he return to school for a year? Seventeen is a bird-in-the-hand age. It takes a good deal of reasoning to show the wisdom of continuing that thread of self-improvement just as long as possible, of laying each foundation stone securely for the building of service through the later years. It requires some philosophizing to show that the democratic idea is that the mass is raised only as the individual is raised and that each individual, therefore, has a most solemn obligation to his fellow-democrats.

Incidentally, this might be a time for inspection by educators, too. Have they effectively shown their charges the permanent value of knowledge? Have they offered the curriculum and the inspiration that can attract above the transitory lure of easy money?

We doubt that Mark Hopkins, or any other great teacher, would ever lack for a student on his log.—Christian Science Monitor.

Says the Ottawa Journal: "For Eastern Ontario the old phrase, 'Let George do it', has special point. In the Drew Cabinet we have George Dunbar of Ottawa, George Doucett of Lanark, George Challies of Grenville-Dundas, and of course, the Premier himself, George Drew."

The cooler days and evenings are with us and a small fire in the furnace or heater is needed to make things cosy and warm. Residents are reminded to inspect the pipes of the furnace or stove and have them cleaned of all soot. Not only as a precaution against fire, but because soot acts as an insulator and keeps the pipes cool.

Agricultural authorities are alarmed over the number of sows that are being sent to market since the season's crop of grain has proven a disappointment. If the practice continues it will prove a serious threat to the fulfilment of the British bacon contract. Rather than inclining to throw up their hands and quit producing pigs, farmers are urged to take a long view of the industry and keep up production.

September brings the Autumn season and the beginning of Autumn marks the resumption of activities by all the local organizations that have taken a holiday during the summer. Those bodies of interested workers have launched upon another season of labour in the hope that even bigger and better results may be obtained in the coming year, and it is our hope that their ambitions may be realized.

The late Mrs. Reddick was born sixty-four years ago at Greenbank and was a daughter of the Rev. W. J. Young and his wife, Emily McKim. She was educated at the Belleville High School, Albert College and she graduated in music from the Toronto Conservatory in 1905. Later she taught music at Albert College, Belleville, for several years.

After her marriage in 1907, Mrs. Reddick lived in Kitamaat, B.C., St. John, N.B., Kingston, West Hastings, Janetville, Lakesfield, Bloomfield, Omemee, Campbellford and since August, 1941, she resided at Whitevale, Ontario.

In the various places where she lived Mrs. Reddick was held in high regard by many friends and those now remaining will regret to learn of her death.

Surviving her are her husband; two daughters, Marion, of Sarnia; and Helen of St. Catharines; three sons, Horace M. of Ottawa; C. Sarvard, of Toronto, and Bruce L. of St. Catharines; one sister, Mrs. Claude Dotts of Tulsa, Oklahoma; two brothers, Rev. W. A. McKim of Winnipeg, and E. A. Young of Marshalltown, Iowa.

The funeral service was held Saturday evening, August 21, at Whitevale United Church and was conducted by the Rev. Douglas Davis of Stouffville, representing the Toronto East Presbytery. The address was given by the Rev. P. L. Jull, of Brooklin, Ontario. Others assisting were Rev. R. A. Whatham, Toronto, Rev. B. E. Newham, of Markham, and Rev. F. W. Madden of Dunbarton, and the Rev. Mr. Burke of the Whitevale Baptist Church. The burial service was read by the Rev. S. A. Kemp, of Havelock.

Interment took place on Sunday, August 22, at Napanee.

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Extension of Compulsory Employment Transfers.

To Employers and Employees:

THE 6th Compulsory Employment Transfer Order, issued under authority of National Selective Service Civilian Regulations, requires compliance not later than September 8th, 1943. After that date no employer may continue to employ any man covered by this Order, unless under special permit.

The first five Compulsory Transfer Orders listed occupations, and required compliance by all male employees in those occupations if (a) in an age and marital class designated under the Military Call-up, or if (b) 16, 17 or 18 years of age. The Sixth Order repeats all occupations given in the five earlier Orders, and requires all other men from 16 to 40 years of age (both ages inclusive) to become available for transfer to higher priority jobs, by registering at the nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

Details of the Sixth Order were advertised in daily newspapers at the end of August. Copies of the Order may be secured from any Employment and Selective Service Office.

If in doubt as to the coverage of this Order, or the procedure under it, ask your nearest Employment and Selective Service Office.

All men, married or single, employed in designated occupations, aged 16 to 40, are now covered by the Orders. To avoid penalties, those who have not yet registered must do so by September 8th, 1943.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

BLINDNESS IN HORSES

If the eyelids of any horse on the farm appear swollen or tender, it may be symptoms of a disease known as periodic ophthalmia through which thousands of horses have lost their eyesight in the past few decades. The veterinary authorities of the Dominion Department of Agriculture believe that many horses are prematurely blinded by this disease because the owners do not recognize the symptoms in time. The following protective steps should be taken when one or more of the horses on the farm show symptoms of eye trouble; first, have an immediate veterinary diagnosis made; second, keep the affected horses away from the healthy animals and third, do not breed animals which have this disease.

SAVE YEARLING HENS EVERY EGG NEEDED

Egg production is a vital war effort, and all the eggs that can be produced will be required next year for domestic use and for export to Great Britain. In order to bring increased egg production to the highest pitch, the Dominion Department of Agriculture urges upon poultrymen the importance of retaining all suitable yearling hens. When the number of good pullets is not sufficient to fill the laying pens, production can be maintained by keeping over the best yearlings. It is necessary that all laying houses should be filled to capacity this year.

Pullets and yearlings should not be housed in the same pen, nor young pullets with older pullets. The older birds drive the younger ones away from the feed. Yearlings that molt early are usually slow moults and poor producers, but active, alert yearlings in good flesh, with skin and fat soft and pliable, are generally the best layers. Overcrowding at all times and in all places should be avoided, and plenty of feed mash and fresh water provided.

Egg prices are close to the ceiling price now and will continue so for some time. So save the best yearlings to maintain and increase production.

HOW TO GET VALUE FROM FARM WOODLOT

The farm woodlot has been proved over and over again to be a good investment, and wherever possible every farmer should have his own reforestation or conservation plan, in addition to any provincial scheme, urges the Dominion Forest Service. Most farms have an area of rough or strong land that would produce more revenue as a woodlot if properly cared for than as a rough pasture. It is on record that one farmer who has followed good woodlot practice, and who has kept records of everything he has removed, found that the land in bush was producing more revenue than the rent of the farm.

In the management of a woodlot, it is important to observe one or two things. Cattle should not be allowed to graze in the bush because they destroy all the young growth which protects the roots of the trees from drying out. When cutting wood for fuel, it is advisable to remove all undesirable species of trees, such as ironwood which does not produce a timber satisfactory for making into lumber. The same applies to crooked and misshapen trees which occupy space that could be utilized for growing straight trees of good lumber varieties.

FARMERS URGED TO BUY OATS

Farmers in Eastern Canada may have been finding it difficult recently to obtain western barley. Offerings to date have not always been equal to the demand. Oats, however, are much more readily available. Fred W. Presant, Feeds Administrator, states, and Eastern farmers are urged to buy oats now and to take full advantage of existing transportation facilities. If this is done a more continuous flow of feed grain to Eastern Canada will be maintained, said Mr. Presant.

Farmers buying feed grains for storage on their farms are entitled to be subsidized of 2 1/2 cents per bushel in August; 2 cents in September; 1 1/2 cents in October, one cent in December.

ALFALFA SEED PRODUCTION

Successful alfalfa seed production depends upon a number of factors, some of which are within the grower's control and others upon a favourable season, says D. J. Armstrong, Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa.

The stand should be free from noxious weeds especially those that are difficult to remove in seed-cleaning. Thin stands of alfalfa yield more seed than thick stands. While the latter factor is not entirely under the grower's control especially where production of hay is the primary consideration and seed production incidental, nevertheless where conditions such as winter-killing, or a dry spring have brought about a thin stand, the chances of a good seed crop are increased.

A profitable seed crop also depends on a season with low soil moisture that prevents too rank and rapid growth and encourages plenty of bloom. After the onset of blooming alternating spells of cloudy and sunshiny weather with moderate wind and occasional showers are considered most favourable for pod-setting.

In order that flowers shall set pods they must be "tripped." This is brought about by the visits of such insects as bumble-bees (honey bees are relatively ineffective) or by bright weather. Tripping due to weather conditions results in a high proportion of self-fertilized seed which is undesirable from the standpoint of vigour in the next generation.

Considering the importance of wild bees in seed production possible nesting sites along fences and woods should be left undisturbed.

A good seed crop of alfalfa depends upon a thin stand of weed-free alfalfa. The season must be favourable throughout and at flowering time there must be a sufficient population of effective tripping insects such as

ECHOES OF THE HISTORIC MEETING

There is a general feeling of great expectancy in Ottawa as echoes of the historic conferences of the Allied leaders in old Quebec are heard in this already extremely busy and excited capital. Indeed, there is an impression not only that these discussions amongst the leaders of military strategy for victory may bring forth in time major developments in various phases of this global struggle but the big events pending or to come will indicate that these meetings between the leaders were the most important so far in the whole war in view of the recent outstanding developments, such as the quick victory in Sicily, the startling results in Russia's summer campaign, the apparently great success of the Allied air power over the forces of the enemies, the removal from the active scene of Mussolini and Fascism and the obvious failure of the U-Boat to interfere seriously with the Allied shipping plans.

Then again the difference in importance of these meetings or the Allied leaders from those in the past is emphasized by the number of newspapermen who followed the proceedings in Canada, though of course strict secrecy marked the discussions. POLITICAL UNEASINESS IN THE CAPITAL

Although the man-in-the-street throughout this country may be forgetting somewhat the recent Ontario Provincial and Federal by-election results yet these bad memories seem to be now even more causes of deep thought and discussion in well-informed circles backstage along Parliament Hill than at the time of their occurrence. It is considered that this is widespread evidence of the possible existence, it is said, of political disquiet throughout the country and this has been a source of much uneasiness among some of the followers of the old major political parties, especially in view of the disclosures that there are now a great many Canadians who seem ready to support untried new political movements or leaders. However, the older political observers along Parliament Hill appear to be calm in face of this new situation holding that these latest election results were merely due to local conditions and to the usual temporary resentment or protest of some people against war controls and taxes of the Government of the day, which has in reality no choice of action in such matters in wartime. In short, the broad view among some observers in the capital seems to be that no great startling uneasiness nor great unusual fear of the new political movements or leaders should exist now as an aftermath of the recent election results, but amongst other observers an opposite view is held particularly if memories of the last world war are revived.

After the last world war the people of Canada not only rejected the Union Government of the day at the polls, but both major older political parties, Liberals and Conservatives did not receive proper decisive support from the masses, with a comparatively new untried party, the Progressive, proving a complete surprise by their unexpectedly good showing or success, though it must be admitted that in the next general election the political strength of this new party was gone. Talk is Not Cheap

Talk is not cheap—at least it is not the cast in Ottawa where there are now no less than 8,000 telephones in Government offices as against 1800 when this war broke out, though three quarters of them are used by departments primarily engaged in military matters. Moreover, it has been stated that much reckless long distance telephoning was done by Government Departments, but this has been denied flatly in the capital. In fact, Hon. Alphonse Fournier, Minister of Public Works, has revealed that each Department makes a check of its own calls, with a list of calls being made up in his own Department each month and the object of each call must be stated.

AN IMPORTANT QUESTION IS ANSWERED
The question has been asked frequently why the Foreign Exchange Control Board "froze" the exchange rate at 10 per cent when this Board was established on September 15, 1939. This rigid and arbitrary figure of 10 per cent was the rate at the time when it was "frozen". This has not only supplied the answer in the nation's capital but it has been indicated that Canada has retained its current rate of exchange between American and Canadian dollars since the viewpoint of the whole nation stability has been considered more important than the exchange rate being at a particular level, especially when a new has been born in mind that any change which would bring a national gain, would also produce a national loss. In other words, a change would benefit certain industries, but it would hurt others, creating dislocation and the need for readjustment.

WILD BEES

Due to the acute need of forage seed, farmers should carefully consider the possibility of cutting second crop alfalfa for seed for home use. Those who wish to grow registered seed should get information from Production Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, Canada.

As a spokesman for the Government once pointed out as an example, if the West should export a lot of grain to the United States under certain conditions, this might hurt them. On the other hand, this might benefit importing industries. Therefore, it has been considered in the nation's capital that stability has been a good thing for the nation.

NO CANADIAN RESPONSIBILITY

Though there has been a complaint that Imperial War Veterans in Canada on pension had lost 43 cents on account of depreciation of the English pound, yet it has been pointed out in Ottawa that this has not been a responsibility of the Canadian Government.

SOME DIFFICULTIES

It has been no secret that there has been a wish on the part of many people for less restrictions and better distribution of beer supplies, but it has been indicated in Ottawa that, in regard to the production of beer in Canada, the brewers, it has been claimed, have had great difficulties in maintaining even the quota which had been given to them with the staffs that they have had available, with no aim existing that men should be diverted from essential war industries in order to produce more beer. Moreover, the better distribution of beer has been entirely a matter within the control and jurisdiction of provincial authorities.

CHECK YOUR NEW RATION BOOKS

The Local Ration Board recommended today that consumers should check the contents of their new ration books the moment they have been received from distributing centres and if they should contain fewer or more sheets of coupons than prescribed to notify the Board at once.

The new ration books should contain one sheet of green tea or coffee coupons, one sheet of red sugar coupons, two sheets of purple butter coupons, three sheets of brown meat coupons, two sheets of grey C coupons, one sheet of orange D coupons, one sheet of yellow E coupons, and one sheet of blue F coupons, as well as three cards at the back of the book.

It is further recommended by the Board that book-holders should write down and put away in a safe place the serial numbers of their books and also endorse each sheet of coupons with their names and addresses on the front and with the serial number on the reverse. Coupons are not valid for the purchase of rationed goods unless the sheet to which they are attached is endorsed. The cards at the back should not, however, be filled out by book-holders until directions to that effect are given.

GOOD NEWS FOR TEA DRINKERS

So many people in Canada drink tea that there will be a genuine feeling of satisfaction that more of it will be available for home rations after September 2nd. The Ration Board has decided this can be done because the safety of the sea route from Ceylon has so vastly improved. The millions of 'SALADA' lovers have just cause for rejoicing.

Ottawa, September 1st, 1943.

EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 2nd PRESERVES and SWEET SPREADS ARE RATIONED BY COUPON

The products affected include: Jams, Jellies, Marmalades, Extracted Honey, Comb Honey in Squares, Honey Butter, Maple Syrup, Maple Butter, Maple Sugar, Molasses, Corn Syrup, Cane Syrup, or any blended Table Syrup, Apple Butter or Canned Fruit.

On and after Thursday, September 2nd, 1943, it is unlawful for a consumer to purchase any of the above-listed products, except on the surrender of a valid ration coupon.

Coupons "D" in Ration Book 3 are to be used for this purpose. Coupon "D-1" becomes good September 2nd. Starting September 16th, two coupons become good every four weeks.

These products are being rationed so that there will be an equal sharing of the available supplies. Persons who do not use the coupons for these products may use them to acquire more sugar in addition to their regular sugar ration and canning sugar allowance.

ONE "D" COUPON IS GOOD FOR Not More Than

Jams, Jellies, Marmalades, Extracted Honey, Apple Butter, Maple Butter or Honey Butter 6 FLUID OZS.

Mailing Lists Corrected

Must be Paid in Advance

The News-Argus mailing lists have been corrected including payments made up to Tuesday of this week. A glance at your address label will tell you if proper credit has been given, and in case of an error please advise us at once.

Faced with increased costs in publishing a paper, and with decreasing advertising revenue, the paid-in-advance policy is required of all subscribers. Prompt renewals are requested.

New regulations make it necessary to collect all subscription arrears. It has been unpleasantly necessary to place some subscriptions accounts of long standing in other hands for collection, and this procedure will have to be further carried out in other cases if such arrears are not settled, or arrangements made to settle such accounts.

from each other." Fact of the matter is the whole rationing system is set up on the basis that the majority will conserve their use of rationed articles to actual and immediate needs.

Harking back to the Order-In-Council which made it an offence to waste coal or heat, owing to the serious fuel situation facing Canada, it is interesting to know that our normal peacetime coal needs are about 38 million tons. This year, geared to such a high war tempo, provision must be made for about 47 million tons. Canadians can be selfish as individuals and sneak excessive heat, more than necessary, or they can play ball for the good of all in Canada. It's really co-operation for national conservation instead of coercion that is wanted.

Talking with a newspaperman back from Washington the other day, he told of trying out a meat shop right close to the main drag which advertises horse meat—choice stuff from "young wild western horses." He bought a roast and thought it quite tasty. Cost less than half the price of beef. He was afraid, however, that in time they would be ringing in "17-year old farm horses", or something.

BONAR LAW

Mrs. John McLaren and Mrs. John E. Brown spent the week-end visiting relatives at Perth.

Rev. and Mrs. M.J.C. Levason, of Frankville, are renewing acquaintances in this vicinity. Mr. Levason is a former rector of St. Mark's church.

Mrs. A. McInroy and daughter, Emma and Miss Margaret Trotter, of Oshawa, who have been visiting relatives in this vicinity, returned home on Tuesday of this week.

On Thursday evening of last week, St. Mark's Young People's Society held a euchre in the club rooms. Miss Mary Drawley and Miss Audrey Gordon tied for ladies prize and John McLaren and Mel Heath tied for gent's prize. The winners were decided by a draw of cards, Miss Drawley and Mr. Heath being the lucky persons. Previous to the euchre a ball game between Marmora and Bonarlaw was played on the nearby diamond and hot dogs and lemonade were sold. The game resulted in a score of 7 to 5 in favour of Marmora.

A WEEKLY EDITOR LOOKS AT Ottawa

Written specially for the weekly newspapers of Canada.

We hear a lot about manpower, but what about Canadian womanpower? Well, there are 4,240,000 women over 14 years of age in Canada. Here are some interesting figures about them. As of January 30, 1943, of this number there were 1,152,000 in industry and 255,000 directly or indirectly in war industry. Farm women numbered 830,000; women students 309,000. There were more than 31,367 in the armed services (and that figure must be considerably increased by this time). 300,000 are considered unemployed.

Canada's vegetable oil industry is one of those revolutionized, in a sense, by the necessities of this global war. This industry is, of course, agricultural. Take flax-seed, of which 53% of that used was imported in 1939. In 1942, however, all of the 3,388,195 bushels used were of domestic origin. Our acreage objective for 1943 is 3,492,000 or an astounding increase over the previous year of 67 per cent. All these changing phases having to do with our agricultural and industrial economy will be part of the post-war problem.

Is it all right to lend your ration book to your farmer friend who uses a great deal of tea, while you use very little? The Prices Board says no, and Thelma Craig of the Information branch answered me this way: "Rationing is for the equal sharing of certain commodities which are in short supply. It does not mean that Granny, just because she likes the extra pot of tea, should be able to have double the ration of the woman next door, nor does it provide for the swapping of tea and sugar by two neighbours who live across the road

PRICE CONCESSION GRANTED ON LUMBER TO FARMERS

Forms for use in connection with the special price concession granted farmers and commercial fishermen in the purchase of lumber for essential repairs to their buildings or for the erection of new buildings other than houses have reached offices of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

Under this arrangement farmers, fruit and vegetable growers and fishermen are allowed a reduction of ten per cent. on their lumber bills in excess of $10 when the lumber so purchased is needed for essential repairs to their buildings and for the erection of new buildings in connection with their operations.

The allowance is not, however, given when the lumber is used to build houses or to make additions to existing houses and it applies only to rough and dressed soft wood, laths, shingles and posts. It does not apply to hard wood nor to lumber for sash, doors or general millwork.

There has recently been a general increase in the prices of lumber caused by higher production costs. Under the special concession now granted, farmers and commercial fishermen will be able to get lumber for essential purposes at less than the increased prices. Their lumber dealer will bill them at the new prices but will deduct ten per cent. from the bill, collecting the balance from the farmer or fisherman. The dealer will then be repaid the ten per cent. by the government in the form of a subsidy.

FOUNDER OF GIRL GUIDES NOTED FOR VERSATILITY

"We are the Girl Scouts" was announced of an eleven-year-old at the first rally of Boy Scouts at the Crystal Palace in 1909. She spoke for a small number of girls dressed as nearly as possible like their brothers. So began Girl Guiding. Before the present war it had spread to more than thirty countries.

It is improbable that any man of modern times has influenced for good the lives of so many as the founder of the two movements, Lord Baden-Powell. The son of a clergyman and one of fourteen children he soon found that success in life depended not on luck but on oneself. He grew into a clever versatile man with an infectious personality and a deep love for his fellow-man.

Robert Baden-Powell was a student, soldier, artist, big game hunter, spy, actor, husband and father—to mention only a few of his achievements. On several occasions he was the guest of His Majesty the late King Edward VII, who encouraged him to give up the army and continue with his Scouting.

The secret of happiness is making others happy. Girl Guides around the world are doing that to-day and through their training learning to be better all-round citizens. And they are having fun in the doing. They are proud to wear their uniform, keen to work together, to come closer to the Queen's Own Rifles.

AIR FORCE GIRL

By Renée Shann

CHAPTER II

Jane, a fashion artist, who has been disappointed in love, and Stella, a free lance journalist divorced from her husband, share an apartment in London. Jane decides to join the Women's Auxiliary Air Force and the night before entering the service she declines Stella's invitation to dinner and goes alone into the gloom of the city streets. She collides with a flight Lieutenant of the RAF. She accepts his invitation to dinner, but refuses to give her name or to see him again.

"You should have. You look like the kind of girl who can think for herself. Just think for a moment and then see if you can look me in the eyes and say that it was pure accident that made you come around that corner the very moment that I was hurrying along in such a filthy temper and that I nearly knocked you over. Everything is meant in this world. You can take that from me. All set before we start. Nothing can be altered. Everything happens at the right time. Don't you believe me?"

"Of course I am. That's why you can't say good-bye to me when this evening's over. We've other plans in mind, you and I."

"If so they are very one-sided ones," she said with a smile. And changing the conversation: "Did you say we were going to Black Velvet?"

"Yes. To the second show. We've plenty of time."

All the same it slipped by very nicely, as did the show. The whole performance, when the final curtain came, seemed to be a blur. Now the audience was struggling to get away. He said, a hand on her arm, "Don't run away while I get my coat."

She watched him move from her side till he was swallowed up in the crowd. There was something about his leanness and the swing of his shoulders as he disappeared from view that she knew she would never forget. Then she turned and, passing her own way through the crowd, came out into the inky darkness of a moonless black-out London.

She raced across Leicester Square and along Piccadilly. As she hurried down Duke Street she wished, too late that she was back in that foyer.

She was in bed and the light out when Stella came home some little while later on. The elder girl crept into her room. She said, "Are you awake, Jane?" Jane sat up in bed and Stella switched on the light. She looked at Jane anxiously:

"Darling, you've been crying."

Jane assured her that she hadn't. Then she said, well—perhaps she had felt just a little depressed. But she was quite all right now.

Stella drew off her long black velvet coat and said she wished she'd not let Jane go off on her own that evening. "I didn't want you to, darling."

"I was fine. I enjoyed myself enormously."

"What did you do?"

Jane hesitated. She knew that what had happened tonight she would always keep to herself. "I had some food and then went to see Black Velvet."

"That should have cheered you up." Stella undressed, put on a dressing gown and returned with her jar of cold cream and a box of face tissues.

Jane slid beneath the clothes. "You can have all my nighties when I'm gone. I bought myself pajamas this evening. I'm going to wear them when we have to wear."

Stella smiled. "You'll be sleeping in chiffon nightdresses again soon. I'll give you six months. All the girls seem to get married once they join the women's services."

Jane shook her head. "I shan't get married, Stella."

Jane hunched her knees up beneath the bedclothes and clasped her arms round them. "Would you marry again?" she asked slowly.

It wasn't the kind of question she would normally have asked Stella. But tonight was a night for confidences and tomorrow night she would be gone.

There was a bleak look of suffering now in the other girl's dark eyes. She shook her head. "No, I don't think I would," and after a moment's hesitation: "You see, crazy as it may sound, I believe at heart I've never quite fallen out of love with my husband. Badly though he treated me, and though I could hardly bring myself to speak to him if I were to see him again tomorrow, nevertheless if I were ever to try to marry someone else, I don't somehow think I could bring myself to go through with it."

Jane's heart smote her. "Darling, I

I'm sorry. I wish I hadn't made you think about him."

"That's all right. I often do. Silly, isn't it?"

"Crazy. But then I often think of Tony." Even as she said these words she knew quite suddenly that she wouldn't think of Tony any more.

Jane went alone to Victory House the next morning. Stella had offered to go with her, but Jane had said she rather say good-bye to her at the flat. At Victory House she was directed to a room where several girls were already waiting. Some were alone. One or two middle-aged men stood beside their daughters wondering just what was going to happen next. Here and there were younger men who had sportingly come along to escort their sisters. One girl had her beau with her. He, when the time came for them to go, accompanied them on the train journey down to the camp and right to the very gates, where at last his girl was forced to bid a tearful good-bye to him.

With the start of the journey there came to Jane a feeling that she was leaving her old life behind forever. A stirring excitement held her. There was chatter going on around her. Names were being exchanged. Girls told of the jobs they had held and left to join the service. Glancing at them, she judged that most of them were younger than herself and noticed that the younger they were the more they talked.

After half an hour in the train they arrived at their destination. They walked in a body to the R.A.F. station where a male noncommissioned was awaiting them. He took them to the orderly room and signed them in.

Lunch followed in an enormous hut which Jane soon learned to call the cook house. The long enameled-top tables were clean. She was given a knife, fork and spoon, which she was told would be hers for the time she spent at the training camp and which she must take away after each meal and bring back again every time she came to the cook house.

When the meal was over another N.C.O.—Waaf this time—collected them and showed them their hut. Jane took in at a swift glance the long bare room looking very much like a hospital ward with its twenty-two beds, each with a locker by its side. The sight of a stove at either end was comforting, for at least when these going they would be moderately warm. Here they were shown how to make their beds and given a brief indication of their immediate duties. Then for a little while they were left to themselves. Jane annexed one of the beds and began to unpack her belongings. Now indeed she was reminded very much of her first term at boarding school, only her conditions weren't half so comfortable and here, instead of being just the only new girl, she was one of twenty-two. But soon they were all beginning to make friends.

Later in the evenings, after supper in the cook house, they all sat around the two stoves and again she noticed how the younger ones congregated together, talking in high, excited voices. As if by common consent they crowded together at one end of the room while the older, quieter ones sought the warmth around the stove at the other.

Now the bare hut was transformed. Photographs had appeared on the lockers, photographs of mothers, fathers, brothers, sisters, and beaux. They went to bed early and Jane had a pretty shrewd suspicion that few of them slept, but they were all smiling and good-tempered the following morning.

The next day there were fatigues. There was the hut to be swept and the floors polished and the stoves to be cleaned out and lit. They all worked with a will and the morning passed swiftly with drill and a lecture on R.A.F. etiquette from a Waaf officer and almost before she realized it was time for lunch—or dinner, as the midday meal was called at the camp.

The afternoon brought the clothing parade. Jane found herself fitted out with tunic, skirt, cardigan, shirts and the regulation raincoat and cap and, though none of these garments could have been said to fit her, they fitted none of the other girls any better. Still, nobody minded. They all repaired to their hut and settled down with needles and cotton to alter their uniforms in the hope that they might be made to look a little better.

She wrote to Stella at the first opportunity. She said, "There's so much to tell you that I just don't know where to begin. On the whole it's very good. We get up at half-past six, have breakfast an hour later, dinner at twelve and tea at four. Soup or cocoa is there if we want it at seven o'clock. We're off duty each day at five and our lights are put out at ten-thirty."

A subsequent letter from Jane, saying that she was so tired out at the end of each day that sometimes she could hardly struggle along for her evening cup of soup, merely made Stella write back and say she hoped she would soon get used to it. She longed to see her and Jane said in her letters she longed to see her, too. They must meet at the very first opportunity. She wrote, "I must get to town if only to order myself a uniform. I find that most girls get them for themselves that they wear when they're off duty, and wear the ones that are handed out to them while they are working."

And so the weeks slipped by. November found Jane moved from the camp near London to a training center forty miles away. She looked forward eagerly to the day when she would be posted to an airdrome and know that at last her period of training was over.

It was Stella who one day sent her a clipping from the personal column of the London Times. There was a postscript to the letter that accompanied it saying, "Suppose this isn't for you by any chance? After all these are your initials, and you were at Black Velvet. I'd like to know just what you were up to that night. You had an odd look in your eye when I got home." Jane had read the clipping, her heart racing. "J.L. Why did you run away that night after Black Velvet? It won't be any good. We shall meet again. Don't you remember what I said to you?" She'd had her blue suede handbag with her that evening, the one Stella had given her on her last birthday, the one with J. L. in bold gilt letters. Well, he was an observer and he had a good memory.

The advertisement was in again and Stella sent it down to her. The first time Jane had written back and told Stella that her imagination had been running away with her. Of course the notice had nothing to do with her! This time she ignored it. But as before she tucked the clipping away in her pocket and read it a dozen times a day, and her pulses leaped each time.

So the old year slipped away with celebration in the mess and Auld Lang Syne sung at the top of many shrill feminine voices. Jane wrote to Stella: "It's so long since I've seen a man, darling, that I've almost forgotten what one looks like. But my period of initiation is over! Tomorrow I'm being posted to an airdrome." And she gave her new address—that of a large R.A.F. headquarters some twenty miles down the river from London.

Jane knew she'd never forget the thrill of that day, though it wasn't only the move to the airdrome that made it so memorable. She picked up an evening paper and there, on the front page, was his photograph! A girl leaned over her shoulder and said, "That story was on the one o'clock news, I hear. Isn't it just too marvellous!"

Jane read it and reread it. She knew his name now. Flight Lieutenant T. Poel-Sanders. He'd brought down three Messerschmitts single-handed. They were talking about it all around her in the mess.

Jane quietly and unobtrusively unrolled the newspaper and the one next morning that had his photograph.

Archbishop O'Brien Dies In Kingston

His Grace Most Rev. M. J. O'Brien, Archbishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Kingston, died Monday in Hotel Dieu Hospital, Kingston, where he was taken Sunday, after suffering a heart attack. Archbishop O'Brien, who celebrated his 69th birthday on July 29 last, had suffered several heart attacks during the past few years, but after a rest in hospital following each attack, he was able to resume his duties.

Archbishop O'Brien was the ninth to head the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Kingston, which comprises the territory from the eastern line of Dundas County to the western boundary of Hastings County, taking in the Counties of Addington, Dundas, Frontenac, Grenville, Hastings, Leeds, Lennox and part of Lanark.

Funeral services will be held Saturday morning from St. Mary's Cathedral, Kingston, to St. Mary's Cemetery. Rev. S. Lesage, of St. James, Church, Stirling, will act as one of the pallbearers.

Requiem Mass in St. James'.

Requiem Mass for the late Archbishop will be celebrated in St. James' Church, Stirling, on Monday next, at 9 a.m.

RETIRED JUDGE DIES BORN AT HASTINGS

Milton Godfrey, 72, retired Ontario High Court Justice and one-time Ontario Securities Commissioner, died at his suburban Port Credit home Saturday night.

Appointed a Supreme Court Justice in 1938, he retired from the bench last year. Mr. Godfrey was born in Hastings, Ont., and was educated at Owen Sound Collegiate, Clinton Collegiate and University of Toronto being called to the bar in 1894.

In 1928 University of Ottawa conferred on him the Honorary Degree or Doctor of Laws in recognition of his "Bonne Entente" activities between Ontario and Quebec.

He served as Ontario Securities Commissioner from 1934 to 1938.

Entered Into Rest

THE LATE JOHN NORRIS WEST

The funeral of the late John Norris West, took place from his late residence, 1st Con. of Rawdon, to St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. Rev. Leslie Harding, rector, conducted the service and the church was filled to capacity with sorrowing relatives and friends.

The late Mr. West, who passed away suddenly at his residence on Friday, August 27th, after four months' illness, was in his 48th year. He was born in Madoc Township, son of Mr. John R. West and the late Anna M. Elevin. Following in their footsteps, he learned the cheesemaking trade, and was employed at Marmona factory when the first world war broke out. Answering the call for recruits to defend his King and Country, he enlisted in the following November and served overseas from May, 1915 to May, 1919, with the 21st Battalion Signalers. On his return home he resumed his trade and for the past twenty-four years has been cheesemaker at Evergreen factory. He was active in the Stirling cheesemakers' Association and had held the office of secretary for a number of years. In religion he was a member of St. John's Anglican church and a member of St. John's Men's Club, of which he was a past secretary. He was also a member of Stirling Legion and the Belleville Army and Navy Veterans' organization. Fraternally he was a past master of Stirling Lodge, No. 69, A.F. & A.M., and past First Principal of Keystone Chapter, No. 72, R.A.M. He was highly esteemed throughout the district and his early passing has brought genuine feelings of regret to a large circle of friends.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Adelia Lummis; his father, John R. West, Stirling; one son, Elmer West, who is now serving with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment overseas; two daughters, Miss Marjoria West with the C.W.A.C., Kingston, and Miss Dorothy West at home; two brothers, Mr. William C. West, and Mr. Elliott West, both of Stirling; one sister, Mrs. S. A. Osterhout, Toronto.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Philip Carr, F. Wood, Volney Richardson, Oliver Stapley, Percy McGee and Thos. McGee.

Interment in Stirling Cemetery.

JAMES DONNAN

One of Stirling's oldest and most respected citizens, in the person of James Donnan, passed away at his residence, Edward St., on Sunday, August 29th, after a long illness, in his 93rd year.

Born of Irish parents, Katherine Peake and Samuel Donnan, who migrated to Canada from St. Field, County Down, in 1847, he was raised on a farm at West Huntingdon. In 1875 he married Jane Robinson, who predeceased him in 1916. He took an active interest in the affairs of his native township and served on the Huntingdon Township Council for several years. He was a member and elder of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, West Huntingdon.

Retiring from farm work in 1919, he moved to Stirling, where he has since resided. Following church union, he became a member of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling. Fraternally he has been an orangeman for 68 years and was a charter member and past master of L.O.L. No. 300, West Huntingdon.

Surviving him are five daughters, Miss Eliza Donnan, at home; Mrs. Gordon (Margaret) Cottam, Stirling; Mrs. Walter (Blanche) Devolin, Cochrane; Miss Matilda Donnan, Reg. N., New York City, and Mrs. Ewart (Nellie) Bailey, Stirling; one son, Mr. Sam Donnan, West Huntingdon.

Two daughters, Mrs. Alfred (Isabella) Reid, and Mrs. Raymond (Mary) Scott, passed away this year.

The funeral took place Tuesday afternoon, with service being conducted at the residence by Rev. David Gray, of St. Paul's United Church, assisted by Rev. W.H.V. Walker, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Interment in West Huntingdon cemetery.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Thos. Fleming and Wm. Shaw, Ivanhoe; Jas. Haggerty, county treasurer, Belleville, and Harper Rollins, J. E. O'Donnell and L. Munro, Stirling.

MRS. JOHN CRAIGHEAD

The death of Mrs. John Craighead, formerly Letitia Cochrane, occurred at her residence, just east of the village limits, on Sunday, August 29th, following an illness of two years' duration.

The late Mrs. Craighead was born in Seymour Township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Cochrane, and was in her 83rd year. For the past thirty-six years she has resided in Sidney Township. She was a

The 50th Anniversary Of St. Paul's W.M.S. Being Celebrated Today

Two Charter Members and Number of Past Presidents To Participate in Program

Successful Conference Held Here

St. Paul's W.M.S. is celebrating the 50th Anniversary of organization this (Thursday) afternoon. The church is aglow with a profusion of flowers, marigolds, golden glow, bronze heliopsis, etc., and the pews are also decked with golden streamers and flowers. A large number of guests have gathered from sister organizations: St. Andrew's and St. John's, Stirling; Rawdon Circuit, Springbrook, Alkens, Eggleton's, W. Huntingdon, Frankford, Chatterton, Scott's, Foxboro, Holloway, Johnson's, Stone Church, Carmel, River Valley.

Mrs. Grace Pitman and Mrs. H. Moore are at the organ and piano, and will provide the musical background for the afternoon. The president, Mrs. R. A. Patterson will give a brief address honoring the occasion, welcoming the guests, and making specially welcome the only two living charter members, Mrs. Robt. Girdwood (85), and Mrs. Jas. Currie (88), who are both present at today's celebration. The program will include a piano number by Mrs. Black and Mrs. Fargey, an address by Mrs. J. E. Munro, of Norwood, a former president, and a vocal solo, by Mrs. T. F. Townsend. Miss Mae Currie will give the story of the years. The Presbyterian President, Mrs. Spafford, will speak briefly and present bouquets to the two charter members. A memorial service will be conducted by Mrs. W. Fox and Mrs. W. C. Pitman, who will bring lighted candles and flowers up the centre aisle to the altar.

The first part of the service is for presidents who have passed into the Great Beyond, and as each name is read, a candle will be snuffed out and a flower put on a cross that is conveniently placed. At the conclusion of this part of the service, Mrs. Cecil Macklin will sing, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere." Then flowers will be placed at the foot of the cross for "other workers of St. Paul's and our own Canadian Missionaries." Still other flowers will be placed in honor of all Canadian nurses, soldiers, sailors and airmen, who have paid the supreme sacrifice." To close this beautiful and impressive service, Kipling's Recessional will be sung by Miss Mae Currie.

Mrs. W. Fox, Mrs. Pitman, Mrs. W. Hagerman, and Miss Della Caldwell, will act as ushers.

The presidents who have passed on are: Mrs. J. A. Jewell, Mrs. Wm. Montgomery, Mrs. Wm. Johnson, Mrs. John Arthur (Mrs. John Wood), Mrs. C. W. Thompson, Mrs. Alf. McCutcheon and Miss J. Westcott.

The Cor-Sec., Miss D. Caldwell, will read congratulatory messages received from Mrs. T. Crukshank, of Toronto, daughter of the first president; Mrs. W. Gordon, of Tweed, and Mrs. Fred Lawson, of Winnipeg, both daughters of past presidents; Mrs. Martin (Miss Lucy Williams), of Toronto, Mrs. Lawlor, of Norwood.

Miss Margaret Gray will represent the Mission Circle with a vocal solo, and members of the Mission Circle will also sing.

Supper Served

Following the program a supper will be served in the Sunday School room at which greetings will be presented by Rev. David Gray, Mrs. L. Hirding and Mrs. W.H.V. Walker. A large birthday cake will be cut by Mrs. James Currie, assisted by Mrs. Robt. Girdwood, both charter members.

Bringing the list of Presidents up-to-date, those who have served in that capacity besides those deceased are: Mrs. A. J. Terrill, Mrs. Thos. Cook, Mrs. Chas. McGuire, Mrs. G. D. Mills, Mrs. Cecil Macklin, Miss Mae Currie, Mrs. Lawlor, Mrs. J. E. Munro, Mrs. R. A. Patterson, Mrs. Geo. Pidgeon, Mrs. Geo. Pollard and again Mrs. R. A. Patterson.

First Officers

The organization of 50 years ago was officered as follows: Pres. Mrs. J. A. Jewell; 1st vice, Mrs. Wm. Montgomery; 2nd vice, Mrs. John Arthur; Cor. Sec., Mrs. T. A. Eggleton; Rec.-Sec., Mrs. Jas. Currie; Treas., Mrs. G. L. Scott. Some other officers of early years were Mrs. V. Blackley, Mrs. J. Kennedy, Mrs. John Brown, Miss Alice Currie, Miss A. McManus, Mrs. Clute, and the lists of members contain many names of those who have passed on so many years since as to be almost forgotten by many. Some of those who have held long-term office are: Mrs. Wm. Montgomery, president for 16 years, not consecutively; Mrs. R. P. Coulter, Rec. Sec. and then treasurer for 23 consecutive years; Miss Ella Currie (Mrs. Lindenfield), Cor. Sec. for 15 consecutive years; Mrs. W. S. Martin, Rec. Sec. for 18 consecutive years.

Past Presidents from out of town attending to-day's celebration are: Mrs. J. E. Munro, Norwood, Mrs. C. McGuire, Belleville, Mrs. J. A. Terrill, Port Colborne, Mrs. Thomas Cook, Warkworth, Mrs. J. D. Mills, Campbellford.

G. H. Minchin Is Appointed Vice-President of Santa Fe Railway — Educated Here

A railroad career, which was inspired by a train trip taken more than forty years ago by G. H. Minchin, then a Canadian school teacher, reached its climax at Chicago, Ill., on August 31st, with his appointment as vice-president of the Santa Fe Railway in charge of operations.

Considered one of the railway's outstanding operating officials, Minchin was named by the executive committee to succeed the late W. K. Etter, who died Aug. 16, in Los Angeles. He steps up from the post of assistant vice-president to which position he was appointed last year after starting with the company as a station clerk in 1902.

A native of Canada, Minchin was born of Irish emigrant parents in Springbrook, Ontario, July 20th, 1882. He was graduated from Madoc Teachers' College, Madoc, Ont., at the age of 18 and entered the educational field at Stirling, Ont., where he taught the primary grades for two years.

But the urge to travel was stronger than the desire to teach and in 1902 he left Canada on a trip to the United States. While in Denver, Colo., he became interested in a railroad career and decided to give up the teaching profession. His employment as a station clerk for the Santa Fe at La Junta, Colo., followed shortly thereafter.

From La Junta he was transferred to Topeka, Kan., in a clerical capacity and later served there as chief clerk to the general manager. He subsequently became transportation inspector, trainmaster and assistant superintendent of the Illinois Division at Chillicothe, Ill. In 1922 he was appointed superintendent of the division and in 1938 the merged Illinois and Missouri divisions.

He was elevated to the post of assistant general manager of the Santa Fe's Western Lines at Amarillo, Tex., in 1939 and two years later on Oct. 15, 1941, was named acting general manager when J. A. Gillies, since reported missing, took leave to serve with the army in Iraq. His appointment as general manager followed in that same year.

Minchin went to Chicago in July of last year as assistant vice-president, the post he now leaves to assume his new duties. He will continue to make his headquarters in Chicago. He is a brother of Mrs. Baldwin Reid, of Ivanhoe.

DIVISION COURT

A sitting of the Fifth Division Court of Hastings County will be held in the Council Chambers, on Monday next, Sept. 13th, at 10 a.m. Mr. J. E. O'Donnell will act as clerk.

Junior Farmers Hold Field Day

Sidney Wins Softball Series and Permanent Possession of Junior Farmers' Trophy

The Annual Hastings County Junior Farmers' Field Day was held on the Stirling Fair Grounds, on Monday and was largely attended.

In the softball tournament, Sidney Township team overcame all opposition to take the championship and become the permanent holders of the Junior Farmers' Trophy, which they have won for the past three years.

The first game was a nip and tuck affair between Hungerford and Sidney, which saw the score tied 1-1 at the end of the eighth inning. However, in the ninth the boys from the adjacent township got to Jessop's slants for four runs to win 5-1. Fred Waite was on the hilltop for the winners with Gordon Walt catching, while Jessop and Marsh formed the battery for Hungerford.

The second game against Rawdon Township which drew a bye into the final, was a free hitting tussle, with Sidney again coming through in the last inning to win by a score of 15-14. Grant Wright and Walt were the battery for Sidney, while Don Rodgers and Art McDonnell divided the pitching chores for the losers, with Harry Brown catching.

The day's program was under the direction of H. L. Fair, agricultural representative, while Gordon W. Ballay, acted as umpire-in-chief for both games.

In the evening a dance was held in the Agricultural Building, with music being supplied by the R.C.A.F. orchestra of Trenton.

Bride-Elect Given Shower

On Thursday evening last, Mrs. Ernest Cain was hostess at a cup and saucer shower in honor of Miss Lois Hay, one of the month's brides. Some twenty guests were present and spent the evening in euchre, Miss Lillian Wood winning the honors. The bride-elect was given a seat of honour and Miss Hazel Detlor read an address, following which the gifts were presented. Lois replied very graciously, after which refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Help Plan Rally

Mrs. W. H. Cook, Mrs. E. Gould, Mrs. H. Rodgers, Mrs. L. Rodgers, Mrs. W. C. West, Mrs. A. Gordonier and Mrs. H. Tulloch, of the local branch of the W. I., attended a programme planning rally at Chatterton Branch, in Sidney Baptist Church, on Wednesday. Mrs. C. Hayes was the guest speaker.

Reopening And Anniversary

After having been re-decorated both inside and outside, the Rylestone United Church will be officially reopened on Sunday. The occasion will mark the 50th Anniversary of this church.

The Rev. J. J. Black, B.A., B.D. of Lindsay, who was last year the president of the Bay of Quinte Conference, will be the guest preacher for the day. Mr. Black was at one time pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Burntwood, and Rylestone Church, when these two churches were linked together.

Special music is to be provided by the choir assisted by guest soloists.

Women's Institute Held Meeting

The September meeting of Stirling W.I. was held in the Community Hall. The 1st vice-president, Mrs. W. H. Cook was in the chair. The meeting opened with the W. I. Ode, Lord's Prayer and a prayer in time of war, followed by community singing.

The usual business was dealt with and it was decided to visit Chatterton Branch on September 8th. The Secretary was authorized to order material for number of ditty bags, the bags to be made and packed by November 20th. Also a number of boxes to be packed for boys overseas at Christmas time. Hooked Large Bass While fishing in Ross' Pond, in the Holloway district, on Friday evening, R. Heriston, local druggist, hooked a big-mouth bass, weighing 5 lbs. 11 ozs., the largest reported this season. The bass was taken on green frog bait and put up a great battle.

To Celebrate 83rd Birthday

Friends will join in extending congratulations to Mr. Andrew McGee, one of the pioneers of Rawdon Township, who will observe his 83rd birthday tomorrow, Sept. 10th. Mr. McGee enjoys good health and is deeply interested in every sphere of local activity. He makes his home with his son, Clarence, and Mrs. McGee, on the farm he bought 54 years ago, on the third concession of Rawdon.

Caught Large Pike In Oak Lake

Thirty eight inches of pike weighing 12 1/2 pounds in a ten minute battle is the fishing record hung up by Mr. W. A. Watson, 217 Dufferin Ave., Belleville, when, early Saturday morning in company with Eugene Hitchon, local radio repairman, the big fellow was landed in Oak Lake, of all places.

—Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer.

Council discussed the matter at some length and it was moved by councillors Rollins and Stapley that Councillors E. G. Bailey and G. Thompson be authorized to investigate the matter fully and report at the next council meeting.

Village Council Held Session

Deputation of Farmers Ask For Water Supply From Local Waterworks System

Members of the Village Council met in regular session on Friday evening with Reeve Wm. C. West presiding and all the members present.

Wesley Lake and Geo. Carlisle waited on council with a view to procuring water for use in their farm barns from the village water system. They would assume the cost of piping from the village limits. However, it was pointed out by the Reeve, that it would require close to 1800 ft. of piping to carry the water from the last hydrant at the corner of Church St. and Old Marmora Rd. to the corporation limits, which would prove quite costly at this time. The legality of the undertaking as well as the probable effect on the source of water supply were also questioned.

Council discussed the matter at some length and it was moved by councillors Rollins and Stapley that Councillors E. G. Bailey and G. Thompson be authorized to investigate the matter fully and report at the next council meeting.

Councillor Stapley stated the Henry Street Bridge needed reflooring, and sidewalk replacing. The matter was left to the street committee to investigate.

Red Cross News

The monthly business meeting was held on Friday with the President, Mrs. Gordon Bailey, in the chair and only about 25 members present. The president read a letter from the convenor of the Jam Committee in Toronto, thanking this branch for the shipment of honey. The last packing from this branch was also acknowledged, as containing 25 pairs seamens' socks, 2 pairs hurricane mittens, 20 men's dressing gowns, 20 pairs socks, 10 scarves, 15 helmets, 10 pairs gloves, 5 ladies' pullovers, 5 pairs ladies' knickers, 5 pairs ankle socks, and the hospital supplies committee also sent the month's quota of 1800 (4 x 4) compresses.

A few quilt patches have come in but there is always room for more. With the weather getting a bit cooler, surely more work can be taken on, — come along and give the Red Cross a hand, or take some sewing or knitting home to do. The war is still on!

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

The W.M.S. of St. Andrew's church met at the home of Mrs. George Rosebush, with Mrs. E. Foster, as convenor of the program. There was a good attendance with several visitors being present.

The devotional exercises were in charge of the president, Mrs. W. L. Anderson. The Scripture Lesson from II Timothy, was read by Mrs. W.H.V. Walker. The minutes were read and approved and reports from various committees given. Mrs. Hoard, reporting for the bale and sick committees, the meeting closed with the National Anthem.

A PRAYER IN TIME OF WAR

O Lord God of Infinite Mercy, we humbly beseech Thee to look down on our nation now engaged in war. With Thy love and care O Father watch over our enemies and all those who serve our country. Look in mercy on all those immediately exposed to peril, conflict, sickness and death. Comfort the Prisoners, relieve the sufferings of the wounded and show mercy on the dying. Remove in the good Providence all causes and occasions for war. Dispose the hearts of those engaged therein to moderation and of Thy great goodness restore Peace among the Nations through Jesus Christ our Lord.

A very interesting topic dealing with "The Italians, their customs, creeds and their church war"; was given by Mrs. C. Fargey; a reading by Mrs. Hoard, on the hymn, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul", gave all a thought to take home. The hymn, "Jesus, the very thought of Thee", Mrs. L. Rodgers, in prayer from the Glad Tidings; Mrs. H. Rollins, reading "Heavenly Vision";

HOMEMADE PIE

Hello Homemakers! Big, brown and handsome — juicy — bubbling — and spice-whiffy — comes the sweetheart dessert from the oven. Mom's pie fairy whoops!

Big, brown and handsome — tired, but happy — comes the man-in-uniform on furlough, for a piece of homemade pie. He really whoops if they're good.

You can, too, make a grand pie-crust. If you're worrying about it, follow the rules and don't fuss. And fillings are as legion as they're lush; so try our suggestions.

Double Crust Pastry

2 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 2-3 cup shortening, 5 or 6 table-spoons water.

Sift flour and salt. Cut in shortening. Add cold water by spoonfuls, tossing flour mixture together. Turn onto a piece of wax paper. Gather up and pressing from the outside form a compact mass. Chill in electric refrigerator. Roll out lightly.

Pumpkin Pie

Cook plums in a little water until soft. Remove stones, mix with sugar to sweeten (about 1 cup) and a table-spoon of cornstarch. Drain off excess juice. Slice in one apple. Fill lined pie plate, cover and bake.

Peach Pie

2 cups cut up of fresh peaches, 1-8 teaspoon allspice, 3-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon butter, 1 teaspoon cornstarch.

Mix the ingredients together. Use as filling for two-crust pie.

Note: If the boy or girl in uniform is expected, cut narrow bias strips of pastry and outline the name or rank on top of the pie before it goes into the oven.

1-4 cups cooked strained pumpkin, 1-2 cup sugar, 2 table-spoons molasses (if obtainable), 1 teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1-2 cups scalded milk.

Mix first five ingredients together. Add beaten egg yolks and mix in milk. Fold in stiffly beaten whites. Bake in one crust.

TAKE A TIP:

1. To make a flaky pie-crust more care must be taken than in making a crumbly crust. Very soft fats do not make as nice a flaky crust

Questions and Answers

This column is sponsored by the Regional Office, Wartime Prices and Trade Board. Questions on price control, ration regulations and other Wartime Prices and Trade Board rulings should be mailed to the Information Branch, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Victoria Building, Brockville, Ontario:—

Q. I am renting a heated apartment.

Is the landlord allowed to cut down the heat, which we are paying him for, without reducing the rent?

A.—Under the existing rentals regulations, a landlord is required to maintain heat and other services. Under the new rentals order which will become effective October 1st, a landlord must obtain a permit from the Rentals Appraiser before he can reduce heat unless fuel is not available or the lessening is due to government orders. If it is reduced, the Rentals Appraiser may order a cut in the rental.

Q.—Is peanut butter rationed under

Brass Bands marching men off to war may cloak its music with harsher, martial strains, shuffling feet on crowded pavements may muffle its trumpets, many-colored uniforms of half the world now on the sidewalks of Nova Scotian towns may subdue its once unique uniforms—but the Salvation Army band, like the great force it symbolizes in the public mind, still carries on.

"Did you notice any suspicious characters in the neighbourhood," the magistrate inquired.

"Sure," replied the new Irish policeman, "I saw but one old man and I asked him what he was doing there at that time o' night. Se he: 'I have no business here just now, but I expect to open a bank in the vicinity later on.'"

"Yes," replied the magistrate, "and he did open a bank in the vicinity later on and stole $20,000."

"Bogorral!" answered the policeman. "The man may have been a thafe, but he was no liar."

the new order relating to preserves and spreads?

A.—No. This rationing applies only to sweet spreads and neither peanut butter nor soya bean spreads are included.

Q.—Do I have to get a permit to buy a used non-portable typewriter?

A.—It all depends upon its age.

Such typewriters manufactured before December 31st, 1932, are not rationed.

Q.—My electric stove is in such a state that our dealer says it is no longer serviceable. Can I get a new one?

A.—Provided your stove is quite beyond repair and provided, as well, that there are no facilities available for the installation of a gas, coal or wood stove. If all these conditions prevail, you must complete a statement of essentiality in duplicate and place it in the hands of your dealer.

Q.—My baby needs quite a lot more corn syrup in her diet and I doubt if the quantity now available under rationing will be sufficient.

Is there any way in which I can get more of t for her?

A.—Infants who need more than the 24 fluid ounces of corn syrup per month provided under the ration will be issued extra "D" coupons to obtain it provided sugar coupons are surrendered to a branch of the Ration Administration or your Local Ration Board.

Q.—In view of the fuel situation, we are thinking of sifting our ashes next winter but are having difficulty in buying a sifter. Will more of them be made available?

A.—Yes, a limited supply of metal has been released for the manufacture of sifters and ash sieves and more of them should be on the market in a short time.

THE ARMY CARRIES ON

Brass Bands marching men off to war may cloak its music with harsher, martial strains, shuffling feet on crowded pavements may muffle its trumpets, many-colored uniforms of half the world now on the sidewalks of Nova Scotian towns may subdue its once unique uniforms—but the Salvation Army band, like the great force it symbolizes in the public mind, still carries on.

The Salvation Army is an amazing organization, though today its achievements, no longer unexpected, may often be overlooked. It is backed by no church, but is possessed of faith. It boasts no titans of finance or industry among its leaders, but is built, instead, upon the broad shoulders of common, Christian folk.

Started in a London slum's degradation, it reaches today to the topmost levels of a thousand communities in a hundred countries.

Survivor of One Great War, it finds in this second world conflict new trials yet greater opportunities to serve.

With all it is doing for men and women in the armed services of the United Nations—in enemy lands it is banned because Christian and democratic—it has not neglected the field to serve which it began: the meeting of human emergencies wherever and whenever found with an understanding and compassion born of experience and with practical measurable help.

Rector Leaves St. John's

Rev. C. L. Harding Presented With Substantial Purse
Before Leaving For Picton

It was with a good deal of regret that residents of Stirling and district learned recently that Rev. C. L. Harding, rector of the parish of Stirling and Frankford, had resigned and had offered his services as chaplain in the Royal Canadian Air Force. While awaiting his call, Rev. Mr. Harding will act as supply at the church of St. Mary Magdalene, Picton, following the departure of Rev. J. B. Creegan to Prescott. Rev. R. F. Gardam, B.A., of Prescott, will supply at St. John's until such time as a rector is appointed by Rt. Rev. Bishop Lyons.

In addition to his church work, Rev. Harding has taken an active part in the community life and both he and Mrs. Harding are highly popular. It is understood that Mrs. Harding and family will remain in Stirling for a time.

Preached Farewell Sunday

Sunday, September 12th, a large and representative congregation gathered to hear Rev. C. L. Harding conduct his farewell service in St. John's.

For his sermon, Rev. Harding chose a most appropriate text—words used so often by St. Paul in closing his great letters. "And now may the Grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all."

He developed a fine discourse on the power of that Grace that may be used by us all, and expressed his sincere hopes that the church of St. John's in Stirling would itself increase in the power of the spirit under the benediction of those words.

Presentation by Choir

After the service a presentation was made to Rev. Harding by the choir in appreciation of his constant and inspiring leadership and training. The choir will greatly miss the able instruction and happy personality of their Rector.

Honoured by Congregation

Friday evening last, the Members of St. John's Church, Stirling, gathered at the Rectory to bid farewell to their Rector of the past three years, Rev. C. L. Harding, Mrs. Harding and their family. Rev. Mr. Harding preached his farewell sermon on Sunday evening, Sept. 12th, at 7.30.

A very happy evening was spent by the congregation, during which they all joined in singing familiar songs and several musical numbers were given individually.

At a given time in the evening the People's Warden, Mr. Fred Kent, called Mr. and Mrs. Harding forward and read the following address:

It is with deep regret that we learn of your departure from this Parish but we have known of your desire to serve among the men of our armed forces. Your work here has been fruitful and has enabled the Church of England, in Stirling, to make definite progress. In spite of the unavoidable curtailment of activities, during the time of war, the congregation of St. John's have never been more devotionally active and incidentally the finances never in a more satisfactory condition. The Sunday School particularly, under your and Mrs. Harding's guidance, is strong and active and gives good promise for the future of our Church. We shall miss you all, the choir especially, both for the inspiring leadership and training given by yourself and for the aid as members, given by Mrs. Harding and the children. In conclusion, we ask you to accept this purse as a token of our regard, and with it our sincere prayers that wherever you may be called to labour, Almighty God will have you all in His keeping.

Mr. Harding made a fitting reply and thanked the congregation for the kind thought that prompted the gift.

The presentation of a substantial purse of money was made by Mr. F. W. Houchin.

The ladies served a dainty lunch and as everyone left they expressed expressed regret at the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Harding and the hope that their future would be bright.

Observes 83rd Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Drewry entertained on Wednesday in honour of the former's mother, Mrs. Geo. Drewry, of Stirling, who was celebrating her 83rd birthday. The guests included Mrs. Harry Reid, of Holloway; Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Drewry and son, Carman, of Stoney Creek, and Mr. and Mrs. Elgie, of Stirling. The occasion also marked Mr. Elgie's birthday. The many friends of Mrs. Drewry in Stirling and district join in extending congratulations.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

The Anniversary Service will be held in Wellman's United Church on Sunday, September 26th. Rev. W.H. V. Walker, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, will be the guest preacher.

Nov. 1 Deadline For Overseas Parcels

Faced with the task of moving more Christmas mail to more Canadians in more corners of the world than ever before, the post office department has announced the deadline for parcel mailings will be Nov. 1.

Parcels mailed by that date—unless there is a mad rush at the last moment—will be delivered to Canadians in Sicily, Italy, Ceylon, North Africa, the United Kingdom, the Aleutians, the West Indies or wherever else Canadians may be.

The mailing deadline is set 10 days earlier than in 1942.

Red Cross Notes

The following articles have been acknowledged as received from Stirling Branch: 4 large quilts, 1 small quilt, 4 prs. boy's pyjamas, 5 girl's sweaters, 14 diapers, 5 units (pants, 2 shirts), 10 pairs children's panties.

The attendance is picking up but there is still plenty of room and work.

The local Red Cross Branch are holding a shower for the men of the Army, Navy and Air Force in hospitals in Newfoundland.

The gifts to be brought to the community Hall, on Friday, Sept. 17th.

The following suggested articles must be new:—Pen knives, pencils, paper and envelopes, cribbage boards, playing cards, games and puzzles, hard candy or chocolate bars, life-savers, gum Reader's Digest, books (paper-covered); cigarettes, gay Christmas cards, cross-word puzzle books, hand work suitable for men, i.e., hooked mats, knitting or crocheting.

ST. PAUL'S W.M.S.

A surprise feature of the 50th anniversary celebration of St. Paul's W.M.S., held last week was the presentation of "war bouquets" to all the past presidents in attendance. These were in the shape of gold leaf roses with a war savings stamp for a centre, and were pinned on each one by the Presbytery President, Mrs. S. Spafford, on behalf of the Stirling Auxiliary. Those honored were: Mrs. A. J. Terril, Mrs. Thos. Cook, Mrs. C. Lansing, Mrs. Cecil Macklin, Miss Mae Currie, Mrs. J. E. Munro, Mrs. R. A. Patterson, Mrs. Geo. Pollard.

In last week's account, Mrs. C. Lansing's name was omitted from the list of Past Presidents, and the number on the program given by St. Andrew's W.M.S., was a duet by Mrs. Roy Eggleton and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker.

Parsons-Dearmer

White flecks and pink and red roses made effective decoration at the Good Shepard Anglican church, Tadworth, Surrey, Eng., Saturday afternoon, Aug. 7th, at 2.30. In attendance, Miss Lorna Grace Dearmer, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Dearmer, to Cpl. Frank Parsons, of R.C.A.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Parsons, of Purton, Wiltshire, Eng.

The service was performed by Rev. Canon Dunn. The bride who was given in marriage by her father, entered the church to the strains of the wedding march played by the church organist. She wore a white satin floor-length gown with Queen Anne sleeves and a finger tip veil. Her bouquet was of pink and dark red roses. She was attended by Miss Kathleen Baker, in a floor-length gown cut on lines similar to that of the bride, only in blue and she wore a Mori Queen of Scot headdress and carried a bouquet of pink and white flowers. Cpl. Tomm, of R.C.A.C., of Saskatchewan, was groomsmen of the bride.

Following the ceremony an informal reception took place in the Tadworth Church Hall, where a wedding breakfast was served to some 50 guests, at prettily arranged tables. Cpl. and Mrs. Parsons left on a wedding trip to London, Devonshire and Cornwall.

Miss Helen Richardson, of Mimico, and Miss Ruth Richardson, of Toronto, are guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Parsons.

Elwood Wilson, of the R.C.O.C., arrived Friday to spend a two-weeks' leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Wilson.

Mrs. J. Fitzpatrick and Miss Marie Fitzpatrick returned home on Tuesday evening, after spending a week in Brantford with Miss M. Fitzpatrick.

Cpl. Parsons is formerly of Stirling and Toronto.

Mixed Doubles Tourney Held

Belleville Pair Win Highest Honours, With Local Rink
Second — 20 Rinks Play

The annual mixed doubles tournament sponsored by the Stirling Lawn Bowling Club took place yesterday afternoon with twenty rinks participating. Eight rinks were from Belleville, four from Campbellford and eight from the local club. Three end games were played with a maximum score of 15 points per game allowed.

High honours for the day went to Mrs. C. N. Baker and C. Bonnisteel, of Belleville, with three wins and a score of 45 plus 2; while second prize for three wins went to Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whithy with a score of 44 plus 11. A Campbellford rink, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wiggins, were high for the two-game winners with a score of 40 plus 9, while honours for one game winner went to Mr. and Mrs. Lee Diamond, also of Campbellford, with a score of 31 plus 3.

Rain caused a break in the play during the final game but after a short delay the tournament was concluded, after which the various prizes were presented to the winners by Mrs. W. T. Elliott, president of the ladies' club. All were agreed that a very pleasant day had been enjoyed.

The annual Fall Fair sponsored by the Stirling Agricultural Society will be held on Tuesday, September 28th, the committee in charge of the various attractions in front of the grandstand have lined up a program which should appeal to all, and indications point to it being one of the best ever seen locally.

W.M.S. School For Leaders
Held At Whitby, Ontario

The 10th annual School for Leaders of the W.M.S. of the United Church of Canada, under the auspices of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch, opened on Monday, August 30, at the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby, with a registration of approximately one hundred and forty delegates.

An auspicious beginning was made when at dinner Dr. C. R. Carscallen, Principal of the College reviewed the history of the College, named Trafalgar Castle, built in 1854 by Sheriff Reynolds, the sale of the Castle in 1874, opening that year as a private boarding school, with Lord and Lady Dufferin performing the ceremony. The high educational standing maintained by the School was stressed by Dr. Carscallen, who said the school justifies its existence, providing Christian surroundings for its students where they just naturally absorb a Christian attitude.

Mrs. W. L. Smythe, Dean of the school presided at dinner, welcomed the delegates and introduced the guests, including Miss Dorothy Pearson, of India, Miss Ida Mackenzie, travelling secretary, Mrs. Haggarty, president of the Branch, and also the School staff.

Each morning session opened with worship and Bible Study conducted by the Dean, Mrs. W. L. Smythe, the subject of the study was "The Christ We Forget", and as the studies continued from day to day there was born anew in the hearts of her audience the great truth that not only is it the duty of every Christian woman to teach Christ, but that she must really know him in her own heart before she can portray him to others.

"Missionary Education in Your Church", a feature of the study was conducted by Mrs. C. R. Carscallen for the Auxiliary delegates; Miss C. Wagar for Mission Circles; Miss Day for C. G. I. T. and Miss Ida MacKenzie for Mission Bands.

The study for 34-44 "For All of Life" was led by Miss Day. The study

IN MEMORIAM

LOSHAW — In loving memory of our dear brother, Arden, who passed away on September 18th, 1942, and lies to rest in the Stirling cemetery, in God's care.

Our last parting wish, We would like to have heard, And breathed in your ear. Our last parting word, Only those who have lost Are able to tell, The pain in the heart, At not saying "Farewell."

Always lovingly remembered by Sister Ruth and brother-in-law, Tony.

LOSHAW — Gunner Arden Isaac — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Arden, who passed away suddenly, September 18th, 1942. He made no one a last farewell, He said good-bye to none, But, oh, what would we give to Clasp his hand, His dear kind face to see; His loving smile, his welcomed voice.

That meant so much to us. Sadly missed by father, mother, Brothers and Sisters. 3-1tp

ENGAGEMENT NOTICE

Mr. and Mrs. Percy McGee, Stirling, announce the engagement of their eldest daughter, Madeline Lillian, to Donald Rainie Walker, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walker, Harold, marriage to take place early in October, at the home of the bride's parents.

ENGAGEMENT

The engagement is announced of Gladys Emma, daughter of Mr. Claude Sharp and the late Mrs. Sharp, Stirling, to Frederick Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Clark, Port Perry, Ont. Marriage to take place quietly late in September.

RALLY DAY SERVICE

St. Paul's Sunday School will hold the annual Rally Day Service on Sunday morning at 11 a.m. The members of the congregation and Sunday School will worship together. A service of special interest has been prepared.

could reach the illiterate, always, there would be ministering for willing hands and hearts.

Miss Pearson was followed by Mrs. R. M. Seymour who made a plea for Missionary Candidates.

Miss Ida Mackenzie assisted by Mrs. A. McCann and Mrs. H. D. Gilmore gave leadership in the Mission Band department. The two periods each day were given to the discussion of techniques of Missionary Education with boys and girls, and to the task of becoming thoroughly familiar with the new study course "Far around the World."

The C. G. I. T. group of more than twenty members, under direction of Miss Helen Day worked on the study project for the coming year "Into all the Villages." This included dramatization quizzes and research on the village life of Asia and Africa, and the great contribution of Missionaries to the life of these communities.

The Mission Circle group met under the leadership of Miss Constance Wagar, Conference Branch Secretary for Circles. Their theme throughout was "The Mission Circle in the World To-Day." Methods of study combined with the objective of the circle were outlined. A review of the study book "What is your Share?" developed into discussions of various projects and ventures applicable to local groups. A timely topic was "What is the truth about the Canadian Japanese?"

The handicraft department now in its second year justifies its introduction on the School's curriculum, in that it has brought to the surface in some instances, and in others developed talents by which skillful fingers fashion original designs along many lines in handicraft. The gifted leader is Miss Margaret Seymour.

Each afternoon the Branch executive meets to discuss, and dispose of the business of the Branch. One item emerging from these sittings was the report of the Branch treasurer, Mrs. E. J. Corkill, during the 1st two quarters the receipts were $29,528.00. Organized Recreation under the direction of Mrs. R. S. Seymour, from 3:30 to 4:30 each afternoon has its own particular part to play in a well-balanced curriculum.

The musical contributions of the staff soloist, Mrs. John Crawford, soloist of Queen St. United Church, Kingston, and staff organist, Mrs. Dudley, organist of St. Paul's Church Bowmanville, featured largely in the success of the school.

The series of lectures on "Missions in a Warring World", by Dr. Kenneth Beaton concluded on Thursday afternoon. The meaning of missions in a warring world, the necessity for a reiteration of the New Testament conception of the eternal purpose in the heart of God transcending any value of any human life, that victory in this war is ultimate but that peace can never be won until Christian love is supreme and universal and Jesus has been progressively re-incarnated in the lives of men and women were points developed by Dr. Beaton in a convincing lecture as he reiterated that only in the missionary enterprise of the Christian Church lies hope for ultimate peace.

The receipts from the Missionary departments under the direction of Mrs. Soper, literature secretary, was $327.50.

Thursday night was dramatization night when various groups, used this method to conclude their study.

The school closed Friday noon, having had a registration of one hundred and fifty-six.

CHURCH CELEBRATES

50th ANNIVERSARY

The fiftieth anniversary of Rylestone United Church was celebrated on Sunday, September 12th, Rev. J. J. Black, of Lindsay, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference of St. Andrew's Burnbrae and Rylestone church was the guest preacher for the occasion. A congregational rally was held in the church on Monday night, September 13th.

The anniversary service marked the official re-opening of the church after re-decoration this summer, for several Sundays the congregation has been worshipping in Rylestone School. The work of painting the church inside and out, was done by Mr. Allan Watson, of Campbellford, and the interior now presents an attractive appearance.

Special music was provided for the anniversary by the choir, assisted by guest soloists. Miss Esther Meiklejohn was the organist.

While the present edifice is fifty years old, the history of the congregation dates back to early days in the district.

The first preacher, the late Mr. Gander, was a consecrated layman and it was partly due to his efforts, that the congregation was formed.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Burkitt, Mr. and Mrs. A. Burkitt spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Reid, of Harold.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. McKeown and family spent the week-end with Canon and Mrs. W. G. Swayne of Brockville.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Walker and June of Bancroft spent the week-end with Mrs. J. Wellman and family.

Mrs. A. Burkitt and Mrs. G. Burkitt, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Ed. Huble, of Trent Bridge.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stiles, attended the Tucker-Wiley wedding at Stockdale on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. MacAdam and David, visited Mr. and Mrs. A. Burkitt on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Cotton and family, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stiles.

CHAPTER III

Jane, a fashion artist who has been disappointed in love, and Stella, a free-spirited journalist divorced from her husband, share an apartment in London. Jane decides to join the Women's Auxiliary Air Force and the night before entering the service she declines Stella's invitation to dinner and goes alone into the gloom of the city street. She collides with a Flight Lieutenant of the R.A.F. She accepts his invitation to dinner, but refuses to give her name or to see him again. He advertises in the personal column of a newspaper, using her initials which he observed on her bag. Stella sends her the notice but Jane says it has nothing to do with her. Her training finished, Jane is assigned to an airdrome. Picking up a paper she sees his photograph. He has brought down three enemy planes.

It was one cold January day as she was walking down the corridor toward the Operations room that she saw him coming toward her. By a miracle she was quite alone in that narrow slit of a passage. She stood aside to let him pass. Her breath caught in her throat. Now he was almost level with her. His thoughts were evidently far away. For a terrible moment she wondered if he were going to walk right past her. Then his expression changed. His eyes lit up. His face seemed to come to life. "Good God!"

She smiled. "You said it would happen."

"It's been so long."

All her resolves now were shaken.

Another moment and they were gone for ever. He looked at her. "I just can't believe it's you! I tried so hard to find you." She knew it must be true. "I haunted that corner where I ran into you."

She smiled. "You couldn't anyway have found me. I joined the W.A.A.F. the next day."

"Thank heaven you did!" They heard voices approaching them. "When can we meet? I'm driving up directly after lunch. Can you come with me?"

"Only at the risk of being arrested. But I can meet you there this evening. I'm off duty at six."

"Can you be at Kettner's at seven?"

"Make it seven-thirty. I've promised to meet the girl I lived with for dinner."

"She won't mind if you tell her you're dining with your fiance."

"Am I?"

"What do you think, my sweet?"

She laughed very softly. "I think you're possibly right."

"Tonight then. I've got so much I want to say to you."

Two officers passed them. One greeted him with a smile. "Hello, Tips! Coming to have a quick one?"

"Yes, I'll be right along."

They passed on "Tips?" she asked.

"Short for Timothy Ian Poel-Sanders. I've been Tips since my school-days."

"And you?"

"Jane Lambolt."

"The Lambolt" is merely for the time being, Jane darling."

She was in a daze all the afternoon. She was reprimanded sharply three times. Sparks, the girl with whom she shared a room, asked as they hurried back to their quarters once they were off duty what was the matter with her.

"I've never known you so wool-gathering, Lambolt. What was it on? Or should I say who was it on?"

But Jane wasn't telling. Sparks what had happened. She wasn't telling anyone, except of course Stella. But, somehow, when she reached the flat she found herself incapable of breaking the news to her.

She told her how sorry she was she couldn't have dinner with her. And Stella laughed and said it didn't matter at all. She said, "What's he like? Where are you meeting him?"

Jane laughed softly. "Thank you for not minding. I feel rather mean about letting you down. Hello! you've cut this out, have you?"

She picked up the clipping from the newspaper as she spoke, the clipping with the photograph and news story of Flight Lieutenant T. Poel Sanders.

"This man's at our airdrome," she said.

"Is he?"

Stella's eyes were hard. Jane knew instantly that something was wrong.

She said quickly, urgently, "What's the matter, darling?"

"Nothing."

"But, Stella, you seem so sort of—different suddenly. You don't seem like you, do you?"

Stella gave a hard, brittle little laugh. She snatched the clipping from Jane's hand, crumpled it into a tight little ball and flung it into the wastepaper basket. She said bitterly: "Yes, I know him. For a brief six months I was married to him. And now, darling, if you don't mind, let's talk about something pleasant. Tell me the name of the man you're meeting this evening. Is he tall, short, dark or fair, and are you going to be such a nitwit as to fall in love with him?"

Now it was Stella who realized that something was wrong. It was Stella, instead of Jane, who was saying quickly, urgently, "What's the matter, darling?" and in a sudden flash of intuition, her eyes widening, "Jane, you're not dining with Tips this evening? He's not the man?"

Jane looked at her. "Yes. But I—well, I shan't see him again, of course."

Stella flicked her hair back from her eyes with a little quick gesture. Her head was up. "Why ever not? See him all you want. Have fun with him. Tips used to be grand at giving a girl fun. Only . . . well, from one who once knew him only too well, don't be such a fool as to fall in love with him."

Jane said, not looking at her, "Suppose you met him again, Stella?"

Stella drew a swift breath. She leaned forward, her hands gripping a chair. "I never want to."

"That's what you say. But are you sure, deep down in your heart, what you really mean it? Remember what you told me the other night, the night before I joined up. You said you had an idea you were still in love with him?"

Stella was saying urgently, "You're not to tell him you know me, Jane. I'm not a dog in the manger. He's free and you're free. Only I don't ever want to see or hear anything of him again. He's rotten through and through. And the leopard can't change his spots. Perhaps it's mean of me to say this to you now that you know him, but I can't help it."

Jane's eyes were hard. "You won't. I—I don't quite know what I'll do about him. For two plums I'd ring up Kettner's and leave word that I can't dine with him."

Stella laughed shortly. "That's ridiculous. Go along and have a rattling good dinner and enjoy yourself, too. Tips will give you a good evening. Only don't take him seriously, and if he tells you you're falling in love with him, just bear in mind that his line with women. And now, oughtn't you to hurry, darling? You're going to be awfully late if you don't."

Jane slid into her coat. Her eyes met Stella's. I shan't tell him I know you. If I ever feel I must, I'll tell you first. But after tonight I don't think I'll see any more of him."

Stella shrugged her shoulders. "That's up to you. Good-bye, darling. You needn't tell me how you get on or what you decide to do. I just don't want to hear about him. But let me see you again soon and for a little longer than this evening if you can possibly manage it."

Jane walked to Kettner's. It wasn't worth a taxi.

And she entered the brilliantly lighted foyer and saw him coming toward her. She knew that she wasn't going to cut him out of her life, as she thought at first. Oh, no! She'd do quite the reverse. She'd see him just as often as he wanted her to or rather as often as she chose he should see her. If he was in love with her now it wouldn't be her fault if he didn't fall twenty times as much in love with her. Then she'd give him a little of what he'd given Stella.

He stood smiling down at her and she told herself her heart was quite steady. It didn't mean a thing that he was so attractive that all the other women around were covertly glancing at him or that there had been no thrill as his hand had touched her arm—or had there? But no—of course there hadn't. Her feelings toward him had changed completely. She glanced at the clock and back again at him.

"I'm late. I know, I'm sorry."

His face was alight with eagerness at sight of her. It was as if flames burned in his eyes. He said urgently, "I was so desperately afraid you weren't coming, that perhaps I only dreamed that I met you this morning. Oh, Jane, Jane! If you knew what you've done to me!"

She could have said just that to him if she had come straight to Kettner's and not stopped to see Stella on her way. As it was, she was now immune.

"I just couldn't get here any sooner," she said evenly.

Tips had booked the same table. There were champagne cocktails again. When the waiter moved away, leaving them alone, he said wonderingly, "I just can't believe I've found you again. Darling, I love you so much."

"Tips, please, I want to tell you something. I . . ."

He smiled. "I want to hear only one thing from you."

"I can't say it."

He frowned. "What do you mean? This morning . . ."

"This morning was a long while ago," she said lightly.

He looked at her in bewilderment. "Are you having a little joke with me, pretending you don't care? If so, it's not very funny."

"No, I'm not joking." Then, remembering that she wouldn't cut him out of her life but instead she was going indeed to fool him, she added, "It's just that I've been doing a little straight thinking."

His brows drew together. "I see, and the result?"

She looked at him. "We know so little of each other. It would be crazy to rush into marriage. It is such a serious step."

"Don't I know it!" His face clouded. "I've been married once already. It was four years ago and a failure from the word go."

Jane's heart was hard. "I see. Is that meant to encourage me? How do you know you wouldn't be making a mistake a second time?"

"Because you're different," he said without any hesitation and with a note of deep conviction in his voice. "Because I don't believe you'll be stupidly jealous or suspicious if I look at another woman. I don't believe you'd call me a liar if I gave you my solemn word of honor I was speaking the truth."

The world seemed to stand still for a moment while Jane allowed herself to think that this might indeed be true, that in fact it was true. For this was the way she felt about him, too. Then she told herself angrily that it wasn't. She said in a light, odd, brittle voice: "Aren't you taking rather a lot for granted?"

"In suggesting you're in love with this morning. Of course I can't quite understand you this evening."

"It's the real me this evening," she said and told herself that she meant it. "I'm not in the least in love with you. I think you're attractive, but dozens of men are attractive. But we can meet. We're bound to, since we're both stationed at the same air-drome."

His face changed. His eyes met hers angrily. "Sure thing. We'll pose each other when you're with a bunch of your girl friends and . . . blast!" He broke off abruptly and Jane looked up to see a woman coming toward them. She was tall and slender, with ash-blond hair and a pink and white complexion. She wore mink and orchids and a smile that was all for Tips, and there was an expression in her eyes as they swept Jane swiftly that was definitely hostile. She was level with them now and stopping beside their table.

"Tips, darling! How nice to see you!" she said warmly.

Tips rose to his feet. If she thought it nice to see him, he clearly didn't feel the same way about her. This was obvious from his expression, he said, in some embarrassment.

The teacher was giving her class a lesson on the virtues of obedience and illustrated some of her points by telling the story of how a baby rabbit disobeyed its mother by straying away from home and eventually being shot.

"Now, if the baby had obeyed its mother, what would have happened?" she asked Tommy.

"The baby rabbit would have grown up, and then some day we should have had it in a pie," replied Tommy.

Coroner's Jury Found The Death Of Wellman's Youth Accidental

Inquest Was Held in Council Chamber Tuesday Night Under Dr. J. S. Demorest

A coroner's jury under Dr. J. S. Demorest, Foxboro, Tuesday night, in the council chambers, Stirling brought in a verdict of accidental death in the case of James Watson, of Wellman's who lost his life in a collision between an automobile, in which he was a passenger, and a CNR freight train at a level crossing on the sixth concession of Rawdon on February 3rd last.

Gordon Robertson, assistant crown attorney, acted for the Crown, while J. M. McKeown, of Toronto, District Claims Agent for the C.N.R., was present in the interests of the company.

Provincial Constables R. Duncan and MacKenzie, of Belleville, who investigated, described the scene of the accident and testified visibility was good from a point 155 ft. east of the crossing on the 6th concession and 167 feet south of the railway. The car, which was being driven by Frank Taylor, in a westerly direction, had James Watson, Douglas Clancy, and Edward Pollock, as passengers, while the train was proceeding north.

Conductor J. Munn, in charge of the train, stated it was an extra freight running from Trenton to Bancroft, and was travelling about 25 miles an hour at the time of the accident. He had heard the whistling blow at a point 80 rods from the crossing.

Arthur H. Wells, engineer, said he had given the regulation whistle and started the bell ringing and did not see the car until the train was about 30 ft. from the crossing. The breaks and emergency were applied at the right of way. The car was approximately 150 ft. from the crossing when first seen by him.

Douglas Clancy, who was a passenger in the right rear seat of the car, described the position of the other occupants and stated the car was travelling about 35 miles an hour at a point 600 ft. from the crossing. He did not see the train.

Edward Pollock, testified James Watson saw the train first, and shouted a warning "Look out, Frank, there's a train", when the car was approximately 50 ft. from the crossing. The car windows were frosted with the exception of the driver's portion of the windshield.

Messrs. G. Cooke, fireman, G. Urquhart and Miller, brakemen on the train, Dr. E. A. Carlton, Harold Elliott and Chas. Morton, also testified.

The jury deliberated about an hour before returning a verdict of accidental death. Members of the jury were Burton Morton, J. Irish, Donald Stewart, Theodore Cooney and Alton Hadley, foreman.

Red Cross Notes

The shower for boys in the armed services and in hospitals was, as usual a huge success, and the v-shaped tables were laden with gifts. The ceremony of acceptance and dedication included the singing of "The Maple Leaf", one of Edna Jacques' poems, "Our Queen", read by Mrs. R. A. Patterson, and a part of the Queen's speech to the women of the Empire was read by Mrs. Townsend, who presided over the meeting. The public school's donations were presented with neat speeches by Arlene Tummon for the 4th room, Daisy Ellen Kent for the 3rd room and Margaret Kent, 2nd room. Tommy Wells and Donald Campbell represented the 1st room but were seemingly speechless!!

The quilt committee is grateful to Mrs. Ves. Holden and Mrs. Foreman, of Carmel, for quilts donated.

A box of gifts were also donated by the teacher and pupils of Carmel School.

Graves Decorated At Springbrook

Hastings & Prince Edward Regiment Band Was Present for Impressive Service

On Sunday afternoon Springbrook Lodge, L.O.O.F., No. 429 held their decoration service at Mount Nebo Cemetery, Springbrook. The Noble Grand's Oration was given by P. C. Clayton Burkitt. P. G. Howard Martin acted as Marshall and Past D.D.G.M.'s W. J. Barlow and J. F. Baker acted as Secretary and Chaplain.

By the kind permission of the Commanding Officer Lieut-Colonel A. V. Yates, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regimental Band was in attendance and furnished excellent music during the march to and from the cemetery and during the ceremony of decoration of the graves. At the conclusion all Oddfellows gathered at the Orange Hall and were addressed by District Deputy Grand Master Earl Fox, of Stirling.

There was a splendid attendance and a number of visiting brethren from nearby lodges were present.

DEER SEASON NOV. 8-20

The deer season will be a few days later in opening this year, according to Game Warden H. McCabe, Belleville, who has been advised by the Department of Game and Fisheries that the season will not open until Nov. 8th. The open season in this area will be from Nov. 8th to 20th inclusive.

At Grace Chapel

Grace Chapel was well filled last Sunday evening when the members of the Morning Cheer Hour Broadcast, over CHEX, Peterboro, under direction of Mr. C. Ernest Tatham, of Lakefield, were present.

Several selections were given in song, by Mr. and Mrs. Hartshorn, Mrs. McConnel, Mrs. Reader, Mr. and Mrs. Neilson, and Mr. Tatham's little girls. A Gospel message was given by Mr. Tatham on the coming of the Lord.

Prisoner of War In Germany

Sgt. Reginald George Seaborn, of the R.C.A.F., who was reported missing about three weeks ago, is now a prisoner of war in Germany, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Seaborn of Campbellford.

Mr. and Mrs. Seaborn are former residents of Stirling and their friends here will rejoice with them in the good news.

St. Paul's W.M.S.

The September meeting of this Auxiliary was held on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. T. Elliott. Mrs. R. A. Patterson was in the chair and conducted the opening exercises. Fifteen members answered the roll call.

In the matter of filling the positions of Community Friendship Secretary and pianist for the remainder of the year—Mrs. Geo. Luery and Mrs. Pittman volunteered for the former and Miss Mae Currie the latter.

There was considerable business discussed concerning the Sectional Rally which will be held in the United church here on Wednesday, October 13th, and menu for dinner, canvassers and various other details were decided on.

Mrs. E. G. Bailey, Sec. of C.S. and spoke briefly of the School for Leaders, Whitby, which she recently attended. Tithing is recognized as the very best way of raising funds for Missions. She mentioned again her proposal that an additional 25¢ per member be a way to bring up the allocation. This proposed increase in giving has been brought before all societies in the Presbyterial and some have reported taking definite action.

Mrs. P. V. Hellwell gave a splendid paper on the work of one of the first missionaries to the Northern Indians. The Golden Jubilee service netted the Auxiliary nearly $50.

Good Programme For Local Fair

Military Display by Argyll Light Infantry — R.C.A.F. Band — Dance At Night

With the annual Fall Fair sponsored by the Stirling Agricultural Society scheduled for Tuesday next, the committee in charge of the various attractions in front of the grandstand have lined up a programme which should appeal to all, and indications point to it being one of the best ever seen locally.

In preparing the programme, the committee has ever kept in view that the Fair is primarily for the agriculturists of the community and has endeavoured to make it of particular interest to farmers. However, the urban dwellers have not been overlooked and there are many items that should appeal to them as well. It is the hope of the Society that the citizens of Stirling and Community will show their appreciation of the efforts put forth by the directors by giving their wholehearted support to the Fair, not only with their attendance, but by competing in as many events as possible.

All of the familiar events are again on the agenda and a good afternoon's entertainment is promised for Tuesday, Sept. 28th. Horse racing enthusiasts will again be able to enjoy their favourite sport as trials of speed—2.25 class and a Free-for-all—are included in the program. While it is still too early for entries for the races to be made the number of inquiries already received from horsemen would herald the prediction that both classes will be keenly contested. There will also be the running race.

The lady's driving and best lady's gent's turnout contests will also be judged in front of the grandstand. R.C.A.F. Band

In addition to the military display to be staged by members of the Argylls, the R.C.A.F. Band, of Trenton, one of the finest in the country, will be in attendance.

In the evening a dance is being staged in the Stirling Community Hall with a good orchestra in attendance.

In presenting the programme the committee feels that it should have the support of the community, and given good weather the attendance on Tuesday should be the best ever.

HELPING THE ADULT BLIND

On Saturday, October 2nd, The Canadian National Institute for the Blind will hold its annual Tag Day in Stirling. The Tag Day is under the supervision of Mr. J. L. Good and Mr. C. A. Wells.

The Institute holds only one appeal each year and all campaign workers are voluntary. The money obtained from the Tag Day is devoted to the work of assisting those who are blind and those who require prevention of blindness service in the communities in which it is raised. In the past the citizens of Stirling have responded most generously and this generosity has been much appreciated. It is through the support of the general public that the Institute is able to continue and expand its services to sightless persons.

When you make a contribution to The Canadian National Institute for the Blind you help to keep blind people in employment; you help to send home teachers into the homes of the blind to give them free instructions in the reading and writing of braille, in typing and in handicrafts; you help to maintain a large library of books in embossed types and talking book records which are sent to blind readers without charge; you help to provide relief assistance for those who require it and to make it possible for those who are in danger of losing their sight to receive the necessary treatment. In short you help to make it possible for the Institute to do everything that can be done for the blind and to carry on its programme of preventing blindness. Support the forthcoming Tag Day and share in this vitally important work.

COME TO THE FAIR

The sun is ashining to welcome the day,
Heigh-ho come to the fair—
The folks are all singing so merry and gay,
Heigh-ho come to the fair—
All the stalls on the green are as fine as can be,
With trinkets and tokens so pretty to see;
So it's come then maidens and men,
To the fair in the pride of the morning,
So deck yourselves out in your finest array
With a heigh-ho, come to the fair"

The Stirling Fall Fair, annual exhibition of the Stirling Agricultural Society, will be held on Monday and Tuesday, Sept. 27th and 28th, and from the present indications it will be an improvement over other years. It is designed and planned to further the interests of Agriculture in the surrounding townships, and is deserving of the support of citizens for miles around. Nothing represents the life of any community like the Fall Fair, with its various displays of ladies' handiwork and the exhibits in cattle and produce from the farm. It is only by exhibiting their produce that the farmers can show their neighbours as well as the hundreds of spectators from Hastings and neighbouring counties just what class of livestock they keep or grain and vegetables they grow. Likewise, the farmers' wives and daughters, along with the residents of the village, may display their culinary art and handiwork. The special prize list is lengthy and covers a wide range for the exhibitors.

The Directors have made a genuine effort to make the prize list, which provides for every phase of agricultural life, and the programme of entertainment attractive. That they have been successful in part is manifest by the list of entries already received by the Secretary, and there is no doubt that there will be many more.

A special feature of the prize list in the cattle section is the Black and White Exhibit sponsored by the Hastings County Holstein-Friesian Breeders' Association. Some $470 in prize money is offered in this section alone, and according to the Fair officials an entry of well over one hundred animals is assured. This exhibit alone is worth going miles to see and all lovers of good cattle should make a special effort to be present.

The programme is one that should appeal to both old and young alike, and has a number of new features in addition to those of other years. The Trials of Speed will again be provided for the horse racing fans of the district. Two races: the 2.25 Class and the Free-for-all, have been carded and all advance notices point to a large number of entries and good racing. There will be the usual running race with good prizes being offered. The Lady's or Gentleman's Turnout, Lady Driver and best single horse in harness contests also will be held on the track in front of the grandstand.

An Army Show by a reconnaissance unit of the Argyll Regiment has also been arranged. The RCAF Band of Trenton will provide music during the afternoon and RCAF personnel will give a display of gymnastics. In the evening a dance will be held in the Community Hall, with music being provided by an RCAF Orchestra.

Altogether this year's programme looks attractive and given fair weather, Tuesday, Sept. 28th, the local Fair Grounds should be the meeting place for thousands of the citizens of Hastings and adjacent counties. Plan to attend and invite your friends to meet you at Stirling Fair. Not only will you benefit educationally from the fair, but by your attendance you will show your appreciation of the efforts of the directors in providing Stirling and district with an Annual Fall Exhibition.

Take a day off and attend Stirling Fair. You'll not be sorry!

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

The week of October 3-9 has been set aside by Royal Proclamation as Fire Prevention Week for the purpose of impressing upon the public consciousness the enormous waste of life and property occasioned by fire and the means to be taken to reduce this tragic and unnecessary wastage.

When it is considered that Canada's loss by fire in 1942 was 304 lives and over $31,000,000 property damage, it is easily apparent that something must be done about it. Fire is a disease that annually saps our national wealth and every citizen should resolve to do his bit to wipe out this menace to our happiness and prosperity.

Every citizen can be a soldier in this campaign by simply being careful with fire, by disciplining himself in his smoking habits, by seeing that every fire hazard in his home, store or factory is removed and by knowing what to do should a fire start. Our soldiers, sailors and airmen are battling a grim enemy on far-away fronts. Let us battle that other enemy—the Fire Demon—on the "Home Front." We too can help to win the war by preventing fires. Every fire is small in its incipiency but it might easily reach the proportions of a conflagration. Our duty is to see that a fire does not start.

This week, in the press, over the radio, in theatres and from the platform, John Q. Citizen will be exhorted to use every care with fire, not only during Fire Prevention Week but every week in the year. It would be well for him to take this advice to heart and to make Canada a fire-safe country in which to live. We need only to call to mind two holocausts which have occurred during the past year in order to show the tragedy which can follow in the wake of fire. These are the Cocoanut Grove Night Club fire in Boston in which 491 people lost their lives, and the Knights of Columbus Hostel fire in St. John's, Newfoundland, in which 99 lives were snuffed out. We can't be too careful with fire.

With large amounts of fruit and vegetables still to be harvested, the call has gone out from the Ontario Farm Service Force for hundreds of men and women, boys and girls, to make this last great effort to save these crops which will be completely wasted unless the necessary help is forthcoming. The cool weather makes one think of the long cold winter in the offing and the possibility of securing fuel. Many householders have no fuel yet and none of the local dealers have any definite information as to when they may expect more coal to arrive. There is considerable wood being trucked through the village but the most of it has already been bargained for. Unless several cars of coal arrive in the next month, the fuel situation in the village will be very bad.

and war enterprises are souring the public to such an extent that the war effort will fall short of what it might otherwise be and salesman for the Fifth Victory Loan will encounter more resistance than is necessary. An independent, non-partisan committee should be appointed by the Federal Government to make investigation, to run down rumors and give publicity to their findings in order that Canadians may go about their work in an atmosphere of confidence and trust. (From the Farmer's Advocate.)

BORN FIFTY YEARS TOO SOON

We dropped into a shingle mill in Renfrew County the other morning and discovered one more place where woman has entered man's sacred realm.

This time we found a girl packing shingles, five thousand, or twenty bunches a day, at so much per bundle. And she liked her job, even though it was a noisy spot and the smell of cedar is most annoying.

We don't wish to boast or anything, but there was a time in our life when we were known as an expert shingle-packer with forty bunches a day and time left to quit before the whistle blew. For that we got one dollar a day and boarded ourself.

Times have certainly changed, and it is possible that this girl is receiving more money than we did for doing half the amount of work. (And by the way, we saw some poplar shingles produced by this mill, not as good as cedar, of course, but if properly treated will last for a long time.)

JOINS THE BENEDICTS

Capt. George Carver, Gananoque, formerly of Wellington, was married in Windsor on Sept. 5th. His bride was the former Florence Keith. Capt. Carver enlisted at Belleville and was previously employed on the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer. For some years he was a special writer for The Picton Gazette.

Premier Geo. Drew On Radio Friday

Premier George Drew, following a Cabinet Meeting recently, announced that he would give an account of the stewardship of his Government to the people of Ontario in a radio address on Friday night, September 24. The Premier, whose Government has been in office a little over four weeks, has created a precedent and a great deal of public interest by the announcement of his radio address.

Prompt action has been taken by the Government to implement the twenty-two point programme announced by Premier Drew during the election campaign. It is anticipated that the address will deal with matters vitally affecting the affairs of the Province. No time has been lost by the Premier and his Cabinet in getting to work. The conference of four hundred farm leaders held in Toronto two weeks after the Drew Government took office demonstrated that the Province is going to get immediate action.

The address will be carried over the Ontario Regional Network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and will include coverage of the entire Province.

The address will be carried locally by CBL, Toronto; CHEX, Peterboro; CKWS, Kingston.

Rapid Expansion

The extremely rapid pace at which Canada is moving now in its war programme is emphasized in the disclosure that, while last year this country's shipyards produced about $50,000 tons of merchant shipping in addition to two or three hundred smaller naval craft, yet it has been estimated that in 1943 this country would produce close to one and a half million tons of ships, with a proportional increase in the actual expenditures for war purposes. In fact, Canada's vast programme of aid to her Allies, together with her unprecedented huge expenditures in this war in tune with the great expansion of her effort, can be observed in the rise of her war costs from about $350,000,000 in the first twelve months of this war to more than four billions of dollars a year at the present time.

A call has already gone out at the Canadian Ordnance Corps Training Centre at Barriefield for rugby players to report to Sgt. Ronne Headley, or Ottawa, at the camp sports room for the beginning of practice. C.O.C.T.C. expects to field a strong team on the gridiron this fall.

"What are you turning around for, John?"

"I've just discovered we've come 510 miles since morning; we'll have to run back to the 500-mark and change the oil."

COLUMN OF THREE'S

This is the twenty-fourth in the series of bi-monthly news letters prepared by the Public Relations Division of Military District No. 3.

Entertainment and the social welfare of troops in Canada is a task of considerable proportions and is entrusted to the Directorate of Auxiliary Services. In Military District No. 3, under the co-ordination of Lt. Col. C. H. Ackerman, Auxiliary Services organizations do all they can to look after the soldier's general well-being.

Auxiliary service organizations such as the Canadian Legion, the Y.M.C.A., the Salvation Army, the Knights of Columbus, and the L.O.D.E. have each an integral part to play in keeping the boys happy and contented during off-duty hours.

Home for many soldiers in Military District No. 3 these days is the recreation hut where he can read or write in comfort, talk to his pals or play games. Thousands of men each week are taking advantage of such facilities. Reading material in staggering quantities is distributed through these huts. Troops everywhere have found a general attempt to take the boredom out of spare time and substitute comfortable relaxation.

Holiday huts are operated where a soldier can meet and talk with his wife or sweetheart in homelike surroundings. Facilities are also provided so that he can continue his education while in the army. Civilian bodies in cities and towns in the district have added their weight in helping to fill in the soldiers spare time should he be away from barracks.

Auxiliary services supervisors of the various organizations mentioned above assist army sports officers in the development of outdoor sports. Typical of this was the outstanding sports meet held at Cornwall during which men from Ottawa, Kingston, Peterborough and Cornwall competed, in addition to representatives of the Canadian Army from across Canada, and a team from Pine Camp, N.Y.

Free movies have proven popular. In most units and in all camps a minimum of two changes a week are provided by the auxiliary services organization. Frequently it is standing room only. During the first week in August this year 1,464 motion pictures were shown in army camps in Canada and there was an attendance of over 380,000 men.

Dances, too, are popular. These are held in this district at the Ordnance and Signals camps at Barriefield; depots at Ottawa and Kingston, and army centres at Cornwall and Peterborough, as well as at civilian centres.

Actual entertainment of the troops by concert and variety shows is undertaken by various means. The greatest supply of entertainment of this type comes from civilian sources. Almost every person in the district who can act, sing, play or dance has been pressed into service with one of the civilian concert parties that are giving entertainment to the troops. Appreciation of the men in khaki for these concerts can be noted in the large numbers attending the performances.

In addition to the civilian concert parties, the Canadian Army has itself produced the well-known "Army Show", which has entertained troops in M.D. 3 as well as other districts across the Dominion. Of late, the services of U.S.O. parties have been made available to assist in the entertainment of Canadian servicemen and women in Canada. These are professional groups which primarily entertain U.S. troops, but which now, on their way through Canada to U.S. outposts in Alaska and Newfoundland, spend two weeks playing to Canadian troops. These parties have been greeted everywhere they go with great enthusiasm, and it is expected that soon troops in M.D. 3 will have an opportunity to witness one of these groups.

ARMY NOTES

Hair flew and not only literally at the Canadian Army Basic Training Centre at Cornwall recently. Ten barbers were allowed into the camp for the rush of hair clipping as 500 soldiers at the centre "spruced up" to parade before President Roosevelt on his visit to Canada's Capital.

Basic training in Canada has gained the praise of many high ranking officers of other armies, and when one has witnessed men of the Cornwall basic training centre going over the obstacle and assault courses, after a 12-mile route march, it is realized that this commendation is rightly placed. The men take the tough courses in their stride after their period of conditioning.

Athletes from the Brockville Officers' Training Centre captured top team honors at the inter-district army sports meet held recently at Cornwall. Cadet John Harold Moore, of Windsor, in training at O.T.C. set a new Canadian Army pole vault record of 11 feet six inches.

When it comes to saving coal — Patriotism and common sense go hand in hand FARSIGHTED householders are seeing the urgent need of preparing their homes now against this winter's coal shortage. They are acting now!

HEATING SYSTEMS MUST BE EFFICIENT: HOMES SHOULD BE ADEQUATELY INSULATED.

Here are some jobs you should be doing NOW!

- 1 Have your entire heating system inspected. Order necessary repairs.
- 2 Have your furnace thoroughly cleaned by a competent man. Insulate furnace and pipes where necessary.
- 3 Be sure that you have sufficient storm windows and that all windows and doors fit tightly. Have cracks in walls repaired. Weatherstrip wherever it is necessary. Consider seriously the insulation of ceiling and walls.

Many homes waste as much as 60% of their fuel through inefficient heating equipment, inadequate insulation and other heat losses. Winter is just around the corner. Prepare NOW!

What Others Say

STARTED EARLY

Summer ends on September 21st, say the calendar, but fall started last weekend, when a good many people dipped into their "75 per cent" hard coal allowance.—Perth Courier.

HARD ROAD AHEAD

We hope that victory is just around the corner, but we mustn't forget the corner is a long way away. Besides there is no easy road to that corner. It is studded with pill boxes and bomb craters. Before we can ever hope to reach it, we have got to continue to reinforce our Money, Materials and Lives. For the wedding trip to Toronto

Mr. and Mrs. Thompson Honoured

On Monday evening September 13th, about one hundred people of Springbrook community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. E. Thompson to spend a social evening with, and to wish a happy wedded life to Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Thompson. Although Dorothy and Wendell have been married for some time they have been in Springbrook for brief periods only since their marriage and Monday evening was the first opportunity that the people of the community had to join together in giving best wishes to them.

Mr. Lorne M. Johnston acted as chairman of the brief programme, which consisted of community singing, songs, best regards from a few of the gentlemen present and an address by Mr. Gordon Bailey.

Following the reading of the address the bride and groom were presented with a purse and miscellaneous gifts from the community. Dorothy and Wendell replied thanking the people for the gifts and extended an invitation to their friends to join them in their home in Ottawa at any time.

A delicious lunch served by the ladies brought the very enjoyable evening to a close.

The address follows,—

Dear Dorothy and Wendell,—

Some time has passed since you embarked on the sea of matrimony, but this is the first real opportunity that we, the people of the community, have had to gather together to wish you well in your new life.

We have had the good fortune of knowing you both—Dorothy for a space of several years, and Wendell from childhood to manhood. With your pleasant manners you have both made many friends here in Springbrook, who will remain your friends even though miles may be between us. While you lived here you were eager and efficient workers in the Young People's Association and in the Sunday School, and were many, many times seen sitting in your family pew at church. We will not easily forget these little things and we trust that you will not either, and that the grounding you received in Springbrook church and Sunday School will always stand you in good stead, wherever you may be.

Wendell, as you have probably learned by now from experience, you have in Dorothy an understanding wife who will do much to encourage you in your life's work and we know that you will make Dorothy a kind and loving husband.

As well as our congratulations and good wishes, which, if belated, are none the less sincere, we ask that you accept these gifts, not for their material wealth, but as reminders of the many friends you have in the Springbrook community.

Signed on behalf of your many friends, — Vera Ketcheson, Jeanne Williams, Hazel Mumby, Gordon Bailey, Lorne M. Johnston.

DIES OF GUNSHOT WOUNDS

Murray Rollins, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Murray Rollins, Weyburn, Sask., formerly of Madoc Township, met with accidental death from gunshot wounds last Friday according to word received by relatives. No details of the accident were received, the communication merely stating that the young man had accidentally shot himself with fatal results.

Cold Facts

The authorities in Ottawa have been giving warnings that householders and others should prepare themselves properly in advance in regard to fuel supplies for the coming winter and the information available along Parliament Hill has indicated clearly and emphatically that this advice must be taken seriously since the coal situation in Canada has been in a position of decreasing supplies and increasing needs on the domestic scene for some time. When the latest coal production figures were examined, these disclosed that by July 1, 1943, there were 24,339 men working in coal mining in Canada against 26,655 men on the same date a year ago, that is in 1942, with the whole tonnage produced falling down about 9 per cent in that time. There has been also a sharp reduction in the amount of coal available for consumption in Canada, judging by the amount of coal produced here as well as imported and the quantity which has to be exported. Indeed, in the first seven months period of this year, this decrease has involved 800,000 tons. Then again, another important indication of the coal situation in Canada has been the rise in the amount of coal imported in this same first seven months period of 1943 as against the amount of supplies since the coal imports have been 57.3 per cent of these supplies this year whereas these were 53.3 per cent in the same period of last year.

Parliament and Emergency

From time to time reports have indicated that Parliament in Ottawa might be called back if any emergency should arise either connected with events in the war or in domestic affairs. This is correct since on July 24, 1943, when Parliament ended its session which started on January 28, 1943, and sat for 119 days, this fourth session of the 19th Parliament was adjourned by Deputy Speaker Joseph Bradette on the motion of Prime Minister Mackenzie King. It was not protracted. In other words, Canada's Parliament can be summoned back quickly and suddenly at any time if any emergency should warrant such action on the part of the King Government for any cause arising in connection with developments in the war or otherwise either inside or outside of Canada.

Share in Earnings

From time to time criticisms have been heard about the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's policy of broadcasting often programmes of commercial advertising. However, it has been pointed out that the C.B.C. handles these programmes together with many private radio stations and last year alone paid these private radio stations for these purposes total of no less than $787,000 for programmes originating in Canada and the United States.

Good Neighbour Policy

Ever since President Franklin D. Roosevelt paid his historic visit to Ottawa, gossip along Parliament Hill has indicated that the "good neighbor policy" of the President of the United States will grow in importance and interest in Canada, particularly as it may affect this country's relations with the Latin American nations to the South. In other words, Canada has not played a properly active role, it is claimed, in the Pan-American Union but it has been taking a deeper interest in Pan-Americanism throughout this war, with the result that this slowly changing attitude may produce new developments, including a great expansion of trade with these Latin American countries when this war will end. Indeed, trade traffic with these nations may possibly open up much sooner at the end of the war than with European countries more directly affected by this war's actual fighting. These considerations as well as other factors have caused the continuous growth of a policy of exchanging diplomats between Ottawa and the other capitals of this continent, starting with Canadian Ministers being sent first to Brazil, Argentina and Chile in the persons of Jean Desy, Hon. Justice Turgeon, and Warwick Chipman, with other appointments expected to follow in due course and other expansions believed in the making in the increasing functions of the Department of External Affairs in Ottawa whose head is Prime Minister Mackenzie King himself.

TOMATOES ARE A GOOD SOURCE OF VITAMIN C

Hello Homemakers! Tomatoes are our second-best source of Vitamin C (Ascorbic Acid), which we must have in adequate quantity in our daily diet to keep the mouth and gums in good condition and aid in building sound bones, teeth and blood vessels. Citrus fruits—oranges, lemons, grapefruit, tangerines, are the best. In case supplies of these may be curtailed we who live outside the citrus belt should eat raw tomatoes and juice generously, and can all the surplus home-grown and market-bought tomatoes possible. Then we will have an inexpensive source of Vitamin C for the winter and spring months. It is likely that tomato juice will be available for those unable to can at home.

Luckily, tomatoes and tomato juice are easier to "put down" than most products. Although some Vitamin C is lost in home canning, the following methods will prevent the loss of the least number of Vitamin C units.

RECIPES

Canned Whole Tomatoes

Wash the tomatoes in cool water. Scald a few tomatoes at a time to loosen the skins. Remove the cone-shaped core and any green portions of each tomato and slip off the skins. Remove the small black spot at the blossom ends. Cut the tomatoes into quarters or leave them whole, and pack them into the containers. Press them down just hard enough to form enough juice to fill the spaces and cover the solids. Fill containers to within 1-4 inch from the top, adding 1 teaspoonful of salt to each quart of tomatoes. Add no water, seal all jars completely, then loosen 1-4 inch.

Process in a boiling water bath (paint jars 35 minutes; quart jars 45 minutes) Tomato Juice

Wash, trim and quarter the tomatoes, but do not peel them. Put the pieces into a pan, crush them slightly to set free enough juice to start the cooking. Cover the kettle, and simmer the fruit gently until the tomatoes are soft but not mushy. Force the pulp while hot through a sieve or colander which is fine enough to remove the seeds. Bring the strained tomato juice just to the boiling point. Transfer the boiling hot juice to the hot fruit jars or bottles. Add 1 teaspoon of salt to each quart of tomato juice and from 1 to 3 teaspoonsfuls of sugar, if desired. Seal the jars or cap the bottles and process them in boiling water bath for ten minutes.

Canned Tomato Soup

1 peck ripe tomatoes, 6 large onions, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 1 large head celery, 3-4 cup flour, 1-4 cup salt, 14 teaspoon pepper.

Wash tomatoes, cut in pieces, add onions and celery washed and cut. Boil these until very soft. Press through a sieve. Put again on the stove and add sugar, salt, butter, even at 250 degrees after.

Answer: Substitute 2 springs of dill for 1 1/2 tablespoons dill seed.

Mrs. C.M.D. asks: "Will the salt solution destroy flavour of peaches to be canned open-kettle method?"

Answer: Use the proportion of two teaspoons salt to each quart of water and do not allow peaches to stand in the solution over 30 minutes, oven canning for 20 minutes in electric oven at 250 degrees after.

CHAPTER IV

Jane, a fashion artist, shares an apartment in London with Stella, a free lance journalist. Jane joins the WAAF. The night before entering service she walks through dim streets and collides with a flight Lieutenant of the RAF. She accepts his invitation to dinner but refuses to see him again. Her training finished, Jane is assigned to an airbase where the Lieutenant, Timothy Poel-Sanders — nicknamed "Tips" — is Stella's divorced husband. She meets Tips at Kettner's.

o'clock. "Well, here we are," he said.

"Yes. Here we are."

"I've never kissed a girl who didn't want to kiss me."

"You wouldn't be doing so now." He said at last, still holding her closely. "You let me kiss you and yet you won't agree to marry me."

"That was just a moment of madness."

"I don't believe you. You let me kiss you because you're in love with me."

This was true, of course, but all the time she denied it. Before he could argue with her further, she said, "There'll be a row if I don't get out of this car right here and now and hurry. Fraternizing with the officers is forbidden and if I'm caught . . . she was out of the car as she spoke.

There were twenty-four Waafs at the airbase. They had come in batches of twelve, she and Sparks having arrived with the second contingent. The first, they'd soon discovered, had been sent to do their special training immediately on joining the service, thus missing their fortnight or life at the camp near London, which had been devoted solely to disciplinary training, and assuredly this had been a pity. Jane, in the first few days on the station, had realized quite dispassionately the difference between the girls who had arrived with her and those who had arrived with her and those who had been sent on earlier.

Sparks murmured to Jane, "Bluebell-darling is off again." Bluebell darling was eighteen. She was the loveliest thing Jane had ever seen. Her hair was almost silver it was so fair and her eyes, fringed with thick dark curling lashes, were as blue as her nickname.

Jane paused in the important business of cleaning her buttons, deciding with satisfaction that they positively shone like gold. The door burst open and two more girls appeared, Hunter and Brett, who were bosom friends.

"It's the hours that'll kill us off," said Hunter wearily. "I'm so dead tired I could lie down and die."

"I know her fairly well, yes. Her husband was stationed at the same airbase I was at up north. I met them both up there. The husband's a very decent chap."

"If I married you," said Jane slowly, "I'd fully expect you eventually to be taking to some other woman just as you're talking to me. But don't let's argue about it. I'm due back at ten and we don't want to spend the time wrangling."

But they did and were still doing so when Tips brought the car to a standstill some little distance from the airbase shortly before ten

Varied Programme Presented At Annual Fall Fair Held Tuesday

Trials of Speed and Army Show Enjoyed — Splendid Horse Exhibit Draws Praise

Ideal weather conditions prevailed for the annual Fall Fair, under the auspices of the Stirling Agricultural Society, on Monday and Tuesday and although a drop in both the attendance and in the number of exhibits was recorded, its reputation as being one of the better small rural fairs of the province was maintained.

Army Show

Keen interest was shown by the patrons in the Army Show staged by the Argyll Light Infantry, of Belleville, assisted by several members of the Stirling platoon, of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regt., under Lieut. C. A. Wells. The manoeuvres displayed a mythical attack by allied infantrymen against a German pill box position, with the detonation of thunder grenades; the rattle of Bren gun and rifle fire, adding realism to the show.

Lieut-Col. B. C. Donnan, officer commanding the Argylls, acted as announcer for the sham battle and explained the various aspects of the battle over the loudspeaker system.

The Air Force Band, of Trenton, was in attendance and provided music throughout the afternoon.

Black and White Day

One of the features of the Fair was the Black and White Day exhibit sponsored for the fourth consecutive year by the Hastings County Holstein Friesian Breeders' Club in conjunction with the Stirling Agricultural Society. One hundred and eighty-eight entries were made in this class alone, including some of the finest cattle ever shown in this district. Although the Holstein exhibit was a feature the other breeds were also prominent with Elmer Wood, of Crookston, George Jarrell & Son, Coryville, and Ben Bleeker, of Holloway, being the largest exhibitors.

Good Horse Exhibit

The entry in the horse section was the largest and best seen for years, particularly in the draught and agricultural classes. Several teams were entered in the different classes, and the judge, A. E. Webster, of Oakwood, had great difficulty in deciding the winners. In the heavy draught class, Geo. Sutherland, of Stirling, won the coveted red ticket, with Burrell Batey, of Eldorado, second, and Ernest Thompson, of Trenton, 3rd. Hubert Andrews, Stirling, won first prize in the agricultural class with W. J. Woods, Tweed, second, while in the general purpose class, Hubert Andrews again won first, with Ralph Heath, of Campbellford, R.R. No. 2, second, and M. E. Bird, Belleville, third. The special prize for the best general purpose team was won by Robert Downey, of Crookston. Other exhibitors prominent in this class were R. Empey, Eldorado; Clarence Sutherland, Stirling; H. E. Johnson, Stirling, R.R. 3; J. C. Gay, Stirling; and Don Neal, Marmora.

In sheep and swine, C. U. Heath and R. T. Garbett were the main exhibitors, while Ivan Caldwell, W. H. Patterson and Geo. Belshaw, of Stirling and Clem Ketcheson, of Sidney, were prominent in the roots and vegetables division. The latter was also a heavy exhibitor in the grain classes.

In poultry, Mrs. Arthur Pyear, of Glen Ross, Mrs. C. B. Rollins and Keith Williams were the chief exhibitors. Messrs. Thos. Heath, and Morris Rose were the main exhibitors in the cheese section.

Prominent competitors in the ladies work division and the domestic science branch included Mrs. J. E. O'Donnell, Miss Genia Spy, Mrs. Gordon Bailey, Mrs. C. B. Rollins, all of Stirling, Mrs. L. E. Bryant and Mrs. G. R. Putman, Wooler; Mrs. Arthur Pyear, Glen Ross.

Of interest was the display from the Dominion Department of Agriculture in the building, featuring parasite control. The display of manual training and domestic science by the

Names Requested

The Stirling Red Cross would like the names and present addresses of all Stirling boys overseas, so Christmas boxes can be sent them. Those interested are asked to give the above information to Mrs. Harper Rollins.

ACCEPTS POSITION

Miss Marie Fitzpatrick has accepted a position in the local Dominion Store, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Miss Norma Sarries.

Undergoes Operation

Chas. Faires, caretaker of the local schools, underwent an operation in Belleville Hospital, on Monday. Latest reports are that his condition is satisfactory, and his many friends will join in wishing him an early recovery.

Bowling Notes

Three ranks of local bowlers took in the mixed trebles tournament held in Belleville yesterday and two of them got into the prize circle. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Whitty and Thos. W. Solmes won high honours for two wins and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott and F. R. Mallory for one win. The third rank consisted of Mrs. P. W. Long, H. L. Fair and R. E. Fox.

A mixed doubles tournament has been planned for tonight at the local greens and all who can are urged to be on hand.

pupils of the public school, the Stirling Red Cross booth displaying the work done by members of that organization and the I.O.D.E. Exhibit also drew the attention of the spectators.

Trials of Speed

The entertainment committee presented trials of speed, running race and bicycle races on the track, with Dr. Wellbanks, of Belleville officiating as starter and Ross Turley, Frankford as master of ceremonies, and some good racing was witnessed.

The results of the trial of speed were as follows:

Chapter Masons Attend St. Paul's

Rev. David Gray Delivers Inspiring Message—Grand Supt. Assisted in Service

The annual divine service of Prince Edward District No. 11 of the Royal Arch Masons was held in St. Paul's United Church, on Sunday morning. The Rev. David Gray was assisted by Rt. Ex Comp Geo. D. Watson, Grand Superintendent. The soloist was Miss Margaret Gray who gave a beautiful rendering of "The Stranger of Calilee".

The subject of the sermon was, "The Perfect Ideal of Religion" based on the text: "He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly, and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God": Micah 6:8.

After setting forth the problems facing Micah, Mr. Gray came to the subject of his sermon. He said, Justice, Mercy, and Religion combined give us the perfect ideal of Religion.

First we have Justice. Justice is the first word in heaven or earth, the first word in all good government.

Not the justice of a Shylock who perniciously demanded his pound of flesh, nor the justice of a Rob Roy, who maintained that "They should take who have the power and should keep who can." That is the law of the jungle. Facist law, but not the law of Royal Arch Masonry, and certainly not the law of Him who said, "As ye would that others do to you do ye even so to them." Life as we have known it has been hard and difficult. God meant life to be good and beautiful but we through our sin, our meanness, and our injustice have made life mean and debasing. "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn." The world has been hard because man has all too often forgotten this elemental principle of life—Justice.

Second, we have mercy. Justice in itself is not enough to make the wheels of life run smoothly. A just man may be a very hard man and a hard man is seldom if ever a Chris-

"SPEED THE ATTACK"

• The slogan for Canada's Fifth Victory Loan has been announced as "Speed the Attack." The objective is one billion two hundred million dollars, the largest in the history of Canada.

Plans are under way for the organization of Hastings County and R. A. Elliott, general manager of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company Limited, has again consented to act as chairman. The County objective has not yet been announced but the co-operation of each and every citizen will be needed to put our county over the top, as in previous loans. This one must be no exception.

So "Speed the Attack" with an all-out effort.

PREVENTION OF BLINDNESS

• According to Sir Clutha Mackenzie, a noted New Zealander, there are a million and a half totally blind people in India. The causes are poor sanitation, ignorance, superstition, lack of medical attention and apathy. There are twelve thousand blind people in Canada. Though many of them suffered blindness through accident and many are without their sight on account of advanced age, there are many who are blind on account of the existence of conditions identical with those of India; poor sanitary conditions, lack of medical attention, ignorance and carelessness. There is only one organization in the Dominion carrying on a systematic endeavour directed towards the prevention of blindness—it is The Canadian National Institute for the Blind. It is not suggested that blindness can be entirely eliminated, but there is no doubt that much can be done to reduce the number of cases of loss of sight. Money spent by the Canadian National Institute for the Blind in prevention services is returned to the state many times over in the savings effected because men and women, instead of losing their efficiency are kept off pensions and relief rolls. A part of the money to be raised in the Tag Day in Stirling, on Saturday, October 2nd, for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind will be used to further the program of prevention. The only way you can help is by contributing to the Institute funds.

IT HAS HELPED

• There can be no doubt whatever about the benefits that have accrued to Canadian consumers as a result of their country's adoption of price control to meet the unprecedented impact of wartime conditions.

Statisticians announced not long ago that during the first 21 months following the imposition of the ceiling on prices, the cost of living in Canada advanced by only 2.5 per cent. as against an increase of 28.7 per cent. during the corresponding period of the Great War. For the first four years of this war, moreover, the rise in the cost of living was 17.9 per cent. as compared with a gain of 45.9 per cent. during the corresponding years of the earlier war.

The fact that control of prices has been in existence since December, 1941, undoubtedly has been of major influence in stemming the upward course of prices, and those upon fixed or small incomes, and lacking the means of increasing them have particularly benefitted from the adoption of this policy, which has been more successful here than in any other nation at war.

The chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, Donald Gordon, makes, therefore, a request which is most obviously in the interests of all Canadian consumers when he urges that they shall continue to give whole-hearted support to price control and thus render marked assistance towards keeping down the cost of living and preventing the onset of a disastrous inflation, the effects of which the consumer would be the first to feel.

A SHORT NAP MAY MEAN A LONG SLEEP

• Fighters are careful about their sleeping habits. They do not doze while they are facing their opponents, for example. At least the winning kind do not. Both box-fighters and warriors get to be champions and stay champions because they know it is not safe to relax before the opposition quits or is knocked out.

Supposing the Nazi propaganda master, Goebbels, handed out a new dish — his theme that Canadian troops were losing interest in the war. Let's say his fancy story ran something like this: Canadians in the Navy, the Army and the Air Force are becoming weary; they are more interested in getting back home; than in pressing an attack: their aggressiveness has noticeably deteriorated.

What would happen to Goebbels' propaganda in this country? Why, in every big and little town people would laugh it down! We would know the story was a pack of lies. Nothing that the German lie-masters invented could destroy our faith in the determination of our men to win, no matter what the cost.

But suppose that Goebbels tried his hand at such tactics, in reverse. Let us imagine that he planted the following story among Canadian troops overseas: the folks at home are becoming weary of the war; production is dropping noticeably in plants throughout the country; absenteeism is growing into a major problem; young and old are spending more and more money for selfish purposes and are becoming less interested in Victory Loan drives.

Would our men overseas in such a situation have the same confidence in us and the same scorn of such a rumor-story as we would show against the reverse propaganda? We think the answer would be "yes." We believe that our troops have confidence in the home front. We have given them every reason for such faith in the past three years. But if we are to be champions in our field as our men in uniform are champions over there, we will remember that even a slight relaxation can prove our undoing. This is particularly applicable to our present task of making the Fifth Victory Loan campaign an outstanding success.

INSURANCE OR TAX?

• From a small Ontario town comes the story of one phase of unemployment insurance. An elderly man, retired some years ago, has been induced to help out the labor shortage by taking a job in a local shop. Inspectors of the Unemployment Insurance Commission have insisted that he take out an insurance book and make his contributions weekly. His intention is to return to retirement as soon as he can be spared, so that he will not be eligible for insurance benefit, even if he makes a sufficient number of contributions to qualify for it.

The incident illustrates one fallacy of the unemployment insurance plan. With fire or life insurance every individual is free to choose whether he wishes to be insured or not and to fit his insurance programme to his own needs. Insurance agents are loath to admit that anyone is ever carrying enough insurance, but they would be equally loath to work for a company that had one form of policy only, even though every citizen had to buy one.

In the case cited, the weekly premium paid by the elderly employee is nothing but a tax on his right to work. The compulsory payments made by many other employees fall in the same class. Married women who have taken war jobs, stenographers who plan to get married as soon as they can manage it, will probably never receive any benefits from their premiums. The beneficiaries will be the men who are now earning good wages at war work, and are or should be putting something aside to tide them over possible unemployment when their jobs come to an end.

The tax may be necessary, since the appetite of the Department of National Revenue is insatiable, but calling it insurance does not make it more attractive to those who have to pay it.—Printed Word.

EQUALITY—CANADIAN AND U.S. WAGE RATES?

• Railway Unions are openly demanding that they get the U.S. scale of wages. That is, if a railway engineer is earning $5,000 a year in U.S. currency in the U.S.—which is not uncommon—a man on a similar run in Canada should obtain $5,000. The Unions do not say whether they should also be given the number of Canadian dollars necessary to equal 5,000 U.S. dollars.

Now, a great many people in the U.S.—a great many very serious people—believe that the U.S. dollar is bound to hit a toboggan. Mr. Ilsley, explaining why the Canadian dollar still stands at a discount, was very careful to point out that this might happen.

If some sort of inflation took place in the U.S. and a locomotive engineer got $25,000 a year, and all other prices rose in accord with it, would the railway unions want their engineers to get $25,000 a year, and would they be willing to have all other prices rise in accordance with this? The farmers might think about this a bit. Mr. Donald Gordon has been lecturing them pretty severely; telling them that they are unreasonable in wanting fair prices for their produce, rising in proportion as city wages rise. The railway unions go far beyond Mr. Gordon.

The plain attitude of the farmer, in his own interest, is to go on record flatly that, if railway wages are fixed on the U.S. level, then we admit that we have thrown overboard all independent control of prices in Canada, and are going to follow the U.S. price pattern. The farmer should demand that, in such a case, the Government of Canada should see that he gets full U.S. prices for everything which he produces, and that this is kept up, as fast as prices in the U.S.—if that should happen.

Farmers have no desire to hurt railway workers, but they certainly do not intend to have the railway workers put this trick over on them—and we hope that Mr. Gordon and Mr. Ilsley will notice this. We particularly recommend it to the Hon. Jimmy Gardner.—The Huntingdon Gleaner.

What Others Say

PASS THEM ON

Most of us, at some time, received benefits which we bitterly regret having been unable to repay. What we can do is to see that we pass on those benefits, or their equivalent, to others without caring whether or not they are able to repay us.—Perth Courier.

ACTING TOO SLOWLY?

E. B. Jolliffe, leader of the Ontario C. C. F. party, has declared that it is the opinion of party members "that the new government is acting too slowly or not at all on promises made during the election campaign." That should provide some indication as to how quickly the C.C.F. would have disrupted the economic and business life of the province with their socialist program.—Smiths Fall Record-News.

PRESSURE NEEDED

The blind persons in this Dominion of Canada, we are ashamed to say, get a mere twenty to twenty-three dollars a month, but if they are lucky enough to earn something over that, their pensions are reduced.

There are times when we feel that we should be proud of our country, proud that we never left it when we had good offers to do so; but when we think of this country's treatment of the aged and blind we, just grit our teeth and hope that real soon there will arise a public man who will have the courage to tell governments just what a lot of us are just acting to tell them.

We are not very hopeful at this writing, nor do we expect very much from the men who make up those governments. Like this town and the town dump on the waterfront, nothing may be expected until the united efforts of the people, who can see these things in their proper perspective, bring pressure to bear where it will do the most good.—Trenton Courier-Advocate.

SMALL TOWN STUFF

What makes a small town small? What makes a small town smaller? We could tell you a few things from personal experiences. Do you ever notice how many people attend a meeting called in the interests of the town? Then you might possibly notice that the people who stay away from such meetings talk the loudest about that which has been left undone. Small town — small people — miserably small!! Then there is the man who always envies everyone else who makes a success of his business or profession. He brands the successful man as a crook, slippery as an eel, etc., and usually winds up by saying that the said successful man will come to no good and that the Creator will take care of such in the end.

We have had many people come in to our office and say that they were sorry they had not entered the newspaper game—there must be big money in it. Then there is the guy who tells us he is sorry he cannot give us his business any longer because we do not belong to his church, or a secret society, or to his particular brand of politics. Small town stuff but we have met it repeatedly. All printing turned out by The Statesman is sold on merit only and when the time comes that we have to worship at the altar of any church, political party or society to obtain business our hair will be greyer than it is at present.

Just think it over — small town stuff! Or why a small town remains small. Some day when we begin to write our memoirs of the First Fifty Years in the Newspaper Game we will go more fully into these subjects. Simeon Perkins will have nothing on us for blurting out the unadulterated truth.—Bowmanville Statesman.

J. M. WILKINSON

CHEESE INSTRUCTOR

Mr. John M. Wilkinson, cheese-maker at Roblin factory, has been named Cheese and Dairy Instructor for the riding of East Hastings. He succeeds Mr. M. McAvoy who died suddenly in Madoc a few weeks ago. Mr. Wilkinson has been one of the most successful cheesemakers in this part of the district and his entries have graded high for many years at various cheese exhibitions. He has been a frequent trophy winner at many provincial shows. His appointment is a well-qualified one and he comes well-qualified to his new post.—Tweed News.

NEW SCHEDULE PRESERVES RATIONING EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 30, 1943

Preserves rationing gives the consumer a number of choices both of products and sizes of containers. Because of the wide range of container sizes and the variation in buying habits across the country it was necessary to put the system into operation and then make adjustments on the basis of experience.

Now that preserves rationing has been in effect for several weeks, it is possible to make some increases in coupon values. The new schedule is announced below and is effective September 30th.

The new doubled ration allowances for molasses, extracted and comb honey will enable consumers in areas where consumption of these products is heavy, to buy more and still leave enough for districts where the total demand is light.

The increased ration allowances for corn, cane and blended table syrups and maple syrup are adjusted to bring coupon values more closely into line with the great variety of container sizes now in use.

ONE "D" COUPON IS GOOD FOR Not More Than

Jams, Jellies, Marmalades, Maple Butter,
Apple Butter or Honey Butter - - - 6 FLUID OZ.

or

Comb Honey (in Squares) - - - - - One Standard Section

or

Cut Comb Honey - - - - - 1 LB. NET

or

Extracted Honey or Maple Syrup - - - 12 FLUID OZ.

or

Maple Sugar - - - - - ½ LB. NET

or

Molasses - - - - - 20 FLUID OZ.

or

Corn Syrup, Cane Syrup, or any Blended Table Syrup - - - - - 14 FLUID OZ.

or

Canned Fruit - - - - - 10 FLUID OZ.

or

Sugar - - - - - ½ LB. NET

Coupons D-4 and D-5 NOW BECOME VALID SEPTEMBER 30th

The validity date of these coupons has been moved forward from the original October 14th to September 30th.

This has been done to accommodate purchasers of some items which at this season of the year are normally bought in large units.

Coupons D-6 and D-7 will become valid on November 11th and the original schedule will be continued from then on, with two coupons becoming valid every four weeks.

NEWS FOR THE BUSY FARMER

PREPARATION OF LAND FOR VEGETABLES

Vegetables, like humans, do not like "wet feet." If the land does not drain naturally, the drains should be laid or open ditches may be sufficient to drain off the surface water, says J. Gallaher, Head Gardener, Dominion Experimental Station, Kentville, N.S.

Before applying manure or ploughing, all refuse should be removed and burned if possible. Apply the manure in the fall, using 15 to 30 tons to the acre, and ploughed under immediately. Pasture land should be ploughed as early in the fall as possible to allow the sod to rot before spring. All other types of soil should be ploughed before the freeze-up. The furrows should be from 8 to 10 inches deep where depth of soil will permit and not more than 8 in. wide. Where soil is not this deep, a little of the subsoil should be ploughed each year so as to get eventually the desired depth of 8 to 10 inches of good soil. The furrows should be placed sloping upright so that the manure will mix well with the soil when cultivating in the spring. When furrows are placed upside down the manure goes to the bottom and is not likely to be reached by the cultivator, nor the roots of some vegetables.

The rougher the surface is left, the better, even to the extent of ridging the land after ploughing as for potatoes. This will allow the snow to gather in the furrows and the frost to penetrate, and will allow the land to dry out so that seedling may be sown a few days earlier.

When land is deficient in lime, a dressing every six or nine years of two tons of ground limestone to the acre should be broadcasted when the land is frozen.

As soon as the land will permit, the disc harrow should be put over the surface, followed later by the spring-tooth harrow set as deep as ploughing was; cultivate at least twice — three time is better. This will mix the manure and soil well, leaving the soil in good condition for plants to root.

A dressing of 800 to 1,200 pounds of 4-12-6 should be applied broadcast in the spring, and harrowed in with spring-toothed harrow, setting the harrow about 4 inches deep. One application is sufficient. Where manure is not available, the amount of fertilizer may be increased from 1,200 to 1,800 pounds to the acre, later adding one or two applications of nitrate of soda at the rate of 150 pounds per acre when plants are well established.

OATS FOR POULTRY

Many poultrymen feel that there is some special virtue in oats both as a growing and laying feed and continue to use them in quantity wherever practicable. The claim, however, states the Egg and Poultry Market Report, Dominion Department of Agriculture Marketing Service, has not been substantiated in a scientific way.

Sprouted oats are again growing in favour, especially in the light of the increasing consciousness of the need of green feed. The greatest problem in the sprouting of oats is the avoidance of mould, and a suggestion of daily turning and watering the oats seems to be the simplest form of mould prevention. Oats for sprouting should be soaked in water for 24 hrs. When a sloping bench is used, the soaked grain is started at one end and the sprouted grain removed from the other. Each day the grain is turned, shaken up, and watered as it is moved along the bench. This will assure that the oats remain sweet and free from mould. A movable board is used to separate the different lots, and more space is allowed as the grain becomes more bulky. A continuous daily supply is thus maintained.

BAKON FOR BRITAIN

Canada is sending more bacon to Britain in 1943 than during all the years of the first world war, stated E. W. Pearsall, Chief of the livestock Division, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and Manager of the Meat Board, at the recent national hog conference held in Ottawa under the auspices of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture. Canadian farmers are this year supplying Britain with 85 per cent of its bacon requirements in comparison with from 1 to 22 per cent before the war, he said, and since 1939 Canada has exported to Britain the product of seventeen million hogs. Valued at four hundred million dollars, Canada's wartime exports of two billion pounds of bacon and additional pork products were greater than the total bacon and pork exports of the twenty years, 1919-1939.

Rationing and restriction of domestic supplies would enable the Meat Board to be somewhere near the mark of completing the 1943 bacon agreement on schedule. Heavier hogs had also contributed to the total quantity of available bacon but were unsatisfactory for competitive exports in peace time. Most critical factor in completing on schedule the current agreement with Britain for 875 million pounds of bacon was the shortage of skilled labour in packing plants.

On this point, Mr. Pearsall expressed the hope for a diversion of farm labour to packing plants rather than to mines or lumber camps, and estimated that 1,700 men were urgently needed to kill and process the hog run in the coming fall months. Even with sufficient labour and with packing plants operating at fullest capacity, it would be necessary for farmers to organize more uniform deliveries of hogs.

FARM CASH INCOME
AT HIGH POINT

Cash income from the sale of farm products in Canada for the six months of 1943 estimated preliminarily at $538.3 million, compared with $428.7 million in the corresponding period of 1942, and $356.8 million in 1941. The 1943 increase was common to all provinces except Ontario, and was most marked in the Prairie Provinces where substantial sales of wheat and other grains were made from the large 1942 crop. The greatest increase in 1943 was in Saskatchewan which was the only province recording a decline in the first six months of 1942 as compared with 1941. Increases in farm cash income occurred in all three Maritime Provinces, Quebec, and British Columbia, although the change in Nova Scotia was of a minor nature.

Income from the sale of wheat increased substantially from the relatively low figure of 1942, but the greatest percentage from marketings of oats and barley. For Canada as a whole, receipts from the sale of oats amounted to $27 million in the first half of 1943, compared with only $6.3 million in the corresponding period of 1942. The sale of barley increased from $4.8 million in 1942. Other substantial increases were recorded in income from the sale of hogs and dairy products, the income from the sale of hogs totalling $106.2 millions for the six months, and $110.3 million from dairy products.

My niece, Valerie, aged four, was watching with interest her mother sitting on the bedroom window ledge, cleaning the windows.

Valerie: "I will hold your legs, mummy, so's you won't fall."

Mother: "And what should you do if mummy fell?"

Valerie (brightly): "I could clean the windows for you, Mummy."

Slow But Sure

There has been no doubt in well-informed circles along Parliament Hill that the gradual increase in the cost of living in Canada during this World War II has not been similar to this rise in World War I, but problems of adjusting subsidies and salaries or wages have caused deep concern in the nation's capital. The cost of living in this country has been going up rather sharply in certain directions in face of the fact that so far the increase along the whole line has been only 18.03 per cent, with one illustration of the rapid rise in certain directions being the report that since the start of this war food has risen no less than 34 per cent. In fact, the gradual increase in the cost of living in World War II has been steady and continuous, though strenuous efforts have been made by the authorities in order to keep it down as much as possible, rising over seven points when 1940 ended, over fourteen points at the close of 1941, and about seventeen points at the end of 1942, involving right now an increase of 18.03 per cent as compared with the figures at the beginning of this war.

Much Activity During Recess

Whether Parliament is in session or not, news seems plentiful these days along Parliament Hill as the tempo of activities often appears greater during the present period of recess. As a matter of fact, two very important committees of the House of Commons, the 24-man committee on war expenditures and the committee on reconstruction and re-establishment, have held meetings and worked during the recess, with the estimates containing an item of $25,000 for living and travelling expenses at the rate of $12 a day for the members of the war expenditure committee and $9500 for the expenses at the same diem rate for the members of the other mentioned committee.

Change of Conditions

While it must be admitted that it has been true that the farm income in Canada derived from the marketing of products has raised the farm purchasing power greatly this year when some of the benefits of the unusual 1942 crops were returned in money, reaching its highest peak since 1929 at June 30, 1943, yet it must be pointed out at this time that this had been attributed mainly to the unusual demands for farm products on account of the war conditions and the unusual supplies obtained by the great work of the agricultural population with one of the principal factors in this extremely successful production of 1942 being the unusually good crop conditions in that year. However, the same unusually good crop conditions of 1942 have not existed in 1943 in various sections of Canada and one report has estimated that of the 1942 yield so far farm purchasing power in Canada, it is expected in some quarters, may suffer ill-effects.

to some extent in the near future.

Rising Revenue

One of the busiest branches of the public service on the home front in Canada is the Department of National Revenue and the reasons for these great wartime activities can be found between the lines in the announcements of the Minister of the Department, Hon. Colin Gibson, with the latest announcement showing that from the start of this fiscal year, that is April 1, 1943, until the end of August, 1943, the revenues obtained from customs, excise and income tax reached the huge total of no less than $1,036,061,000 or a net increase of no less than $159,069,827 since during the same period last year this total had been $876,961,673.

Popular Policy

The great importance with which the Government now regards the task of building better bodies for all Canadians is reflected in the moves contemplated in the act to create the council for the purposes of promoting national fitness. This act grew out of the recommendation originally made by the social security committee and it followed along the principles of some other countries which have had physical fitness as a national aim for a long time. When Minister of Pensions and National Health, Hon. Ian Mackenzie, had explained this act, he stated that such a council will be set up with all provinces represented on this body and a tenth man will be an appointee of the Federal Government. Though the headquarters will be in Ottawa, yet the actual carrying out of this ambitious plan will be by the provinces, with the exact amount which each province will be giving a sum which will bear the same proportion to the sum of $225,000, as the population of such province at the last decennial census bears to the population of Canada as a whole. It is considered in Ottawa to be an important move in an effort to improve the health of the people of Canada.

No Commission on Account of War

It can be reported that for some time there has been a feeling backstage along Parliament Hill that some parts of Canada's Criminal Code were not entirely in tune with the changing times and these ought to undergo a complete revision. But in view of the war conditions, it has been indicated in Ottawa that there was no desire to appoint at this time a commission for this purpose. Nevertheless, it has been revealed that some lawyers of the Department of Justice in Ottawa have been working on it.

Liable for Taxes

In answer to complaints which had been made that Canada's original inhabitants the Indians, should not be subject to income tax, it has been stated in Ottawa that an Indian was not liable to income tax unless he entered a profession such as a white man might do. Hence, working outside of the reserve, he or she would be liable to the same taxes which others pay.

ALLOW RE-TINNING OF SYRUP EVAPORATORS

Metal required for the recoating of maple syrup evaporators worn by years of service will be released to renew the equipment, according to information received at the regional office of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

In a move to conserve metals, the manufacture of evaporators was prohibited except for replacement. Now it has been announced that this equipment from which the tin coating has been worn by service may be retinned and made suitable for further use. In this way it is anticipated that production will not be curtailed and metals marked for civilian use will be put to their best possible use.

Pat was engaged putting a water meter into the poorhouse. Saturday came and the boss saw Pat dolefully examining his pay cheque. "Mistake in your wages, Pat?" he asked.

"Oh, no," said Pat, "but I was just wondering whether me or the water would be in the poorhouse first."

YOUNG COUPLE REMEMBERED

About seventy-five friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker, on Friday evening, Sept. 17th, and tendered a miscellaneous shower to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tucker, who were married recently. Rev. David Gray acted as master of ceremonies for a program of community singing, with Mrs.
H. West at the piano, solo, by Miss Margaret Gray and two readings, entitled "Husbands" and "Wives" by Edgar Guest, given by Mrs. W. T. Elliott and Mrs. N. Wescott. The young couple were given a seat of honour and Mr. Harry E. Hulin read the following address.

It is with a great measure of happiness that we, your friends and neighbors, have gathered here this evening to celebrate your entrance in to the ranks of the Benedicts.

During the years we have watched you grow up from youth to manhood, we have been impressed with your fine qualities of character. In your own quiet way you have moved among us and by your fine qualities you have won our respect. You have been diligent in your labors, yet you have always found time to take an interest in the young life of the Community. in the work of the United Church of our village, you have taken an active part, especially in the work of the Sunday School and the Young People's Union. Your influence in this work has been felt and highly appreciated.

We feel that we cannot let the occasion of your marriage pass by unnoticed, and we want to express our appreciation not only in words but in deeds. In your married life we wish you both all of the best. True marriage happiness is like a garden in which there are at least three varieties of beautiful flowers. They are spiritual, social, and physical. But love is the rich soil from which all three obtain their strength and loveliness.

You are both going to make a home, but remember it takes more than a fine house to make a home, it takes the love and the trust of husband and wife.

Always be sweethearts, then the flowers of kindness, of thoughtfulness, and attentiveness which bloomed so profusely in your courtship days will continue to bloom. It is these that make a house a home.

On behalf of your friends and neighbors
we now offer you these gifts.
We hope you will accept them and find them useful in the days to come.
Wishing you both long life and happiness.

Members of St. Paul's Sunday School also attended and following an address by Mr. J. L. Good, superintendent, the young couple were presented with a table cloth on behalf of the Sunday School.

The young couple voiced their appreciation and thanks for the gifts, following which refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed.

Entered Into Rest

LATE ROBERT E. ROY

The funeral of Robert Elliott Roy, who died in the Toronto General Hospital on Friday, September 24, after an illness of three weeks' duration, took place from his home, 76 Canal Street, Trenton, on Monday afternoon, September 27. The service in the home and at Mt. Evergreen Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. R. C. MacLean, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

The bearers were Messrs. J. Walsh, W. Smith, J. Tym, E. Parnell, H. Hennessey and C. Baker.

The late Mr. Roy, who was in his 64th year, was born in West Huntingdon, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Roy. His mother's maiden name was Mary Elliott. For some years he lived in the township where he was born and for the past twenty-seven years he made his home in Trenton, being employed by the Hinde & Dauch Paper Company. He was well known in the town and was highly respected. In religion he was a member of the Presbyterian Church and fraternally he was a member of the Loyal Orange Lodge, No. 206, Trenton.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Mabel Fisher, three daughters, Miss Irene Roy, Trenton; Mrs. W. Moore, Port Dover, Ontario, and Mrs. H. Hanton, of Belleville; two sons, Cecil Roy, of Yale, Mich., and Findlay Roy, of Montreal.

ARCHIBALD MACGILLIVRAY

Following an illness of five weeks, Archibald Macgillivray passed away at the residence of Dr. E. A. Carleton, Front St. on Saturday last.

The late Mr. Macgillivray, who was in his 84th year, was born in the township of Nottawasaga in Simcoe County and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Macgillivray. For many years he was a successful farmer in the township where he was born and twenty-five years ago he retired and later lived in Collingwood and Toronto. Three years ago he and his wife moved to Stirling to make their home with their daughter, Mrs. Carleton and Dr. E. A. Carleton. During his residence here he has made many close friends, who will regret his passing. A great lover of flowers, he spent much of his time working in the garden so long as his health permitted. In religion he was a member of the United church.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage was Miss Isabella Currie; four daughters, Mrs. C. G. Bain, Toronto; Mrs. E. A. Carleton, Stirling; Miss Lillian Macgillivray, Toronto, and Mrs. G. A. Wylie, Brantford; one sister, Mrs. Isabella McDermid, Ottawa, Ontario.

A short service was held at the residence of Dr. E. A. Carleton, on Sunday evening, at 9:30 and was conducted by Rev. David Gray, of St. Paul's United Church, assisted by Rev. W.H.V. Walker, of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, and Rev. R. F. Gardam, St. John's Anglican church. The body was conveyed to Toronto on Monday and the funeral took place from the Bedford Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon. Interment in Mt. Pleasant cemetery.

E. T. SARLES

It was with much regret that citizens of Huntingdon Township and the surrounding community learned of the sudden passing of a loyal and much loved native of Huntingdon Township in the person of Mr. E. T. Sarles, he had spent his entire life in the community in which he was born, being possessed of a kindly and loving disposition he won for himself a host of friends.

In early life he followed the cheese making profession, but for past number of years he was a successful farmer and also operated the rural mail route from West Huntingdon to Moira. In religion he was a faithful member of the West Huntingdon United Church, and for a number of years was superintendent of the Sunday School.

Fraternally he was an honorary member of the Loyal Orange Lodge No. 300, West Huntingdon, and was a pastmaster of the lodge, past district master and past country master. He also took an active part in municipal affairs, at one time he was councillor for Huntingdon Township and for a number of years up till the time of his death was treasurer of the township; faithfulness and accuracy were his watchwords. His funeral service was held on Monday and was largely attended. It was held in the United Church, West Huntingdon, and was conducted by his pastor, Mr. Kenneth Stewart. Members of the Orange Order attended in a body, and had charge of the beautiful burial service of the Orange Order at the graveside in

SEED GROWERS

As there seems to be some misunderstanding regarding the manner in which this season's crop of clover and Timothy seed is to be handled we feel we should make the situation clear to the many farmers from whom we have bought for years.

The Special Products Board of the Federal Government have taken over the Export trade of Clover Seeds and have ruled that this seed must be purchased by licensed dealers such as ourselves, on a once cleaned basis at prices agreed upon after the seed has been cleaned. Cheques are mailed to the grower along with a participation certificate. This certificate is issued by the buyer for the Government and is to be filed with the Special Products Board by the grower before May 15th, 1944, after which time profits derived from the export sales will be divided on a pro rata basis. It would seem that these participation certificates will have a decided value. It is the wish of the Government that all clover seed possible find its way to the export market.

Timothy seed does not come under the above regulations and can be sold either cleaned or in the rough state.

Our cleaning plant is licensed and approved by the seed export office and we are authorized to issue Participation Certificates. All seed delivered to us will be cleaned as quickly as possible and we will make prompt cash returns.

Owing to the shortage of trained help and the need to conserve gasoline and tires we will be unable to see all our old customers but would ask all growers to submit samples of any clovers or timothy seed they have to offer. We feel sure we can pay satisfactory prices as always.

A WEEKLY EDITOR'S LOOKS AT Ottawa

Written specially for the weekly newspapers of Canada

This column which goes out to far and hindermost reaches of Canada, feels it cannot over-emphasize the appeal to the "small investor" to think of the contribution he or she is going to, or should, make to the forth-coming Fifth Victory Loan. Everywhere, in all the towns and villages, they tell me at headquarters here—great preparations are being made by local committees to top local objectives. You know the fellows—your banker, your baker, your merchant, your school teacher, your farm community leader, your ordinary guy working behind the counter, will be appealing to you to "Speed Victory." The hundreds of releases which go through this office from army, navy and air force, telling in piecemeal of the epic deeds, the sacrifices of your boys over there impels me to keep this subject "hot" before you and to try and convey the idea of the tremendous urgency of sending your spare dollars to strengthen muscles of our war effort.

* * * * *

Our producers in Canada will be a fundamental of any post-war economics, national and international. The coal miner, the farmer, the fisherman, the fruit grower, have a job ahead. This was pointed out in Ottawa in speeches before clubs made this week by a distinguished visitor, William Mabane, M.P., parliamentary secretary to the British Minister of Food, Lord Woolton. He emphasized that our task to produce food stuffs will be one of the greatest in history, because Europe right now is in a state of nutritional exhaustion. He was sure our post war problem would not be surpluses, but maybe shortages in such things as we produce in this country; meats, dairy products, fats and oils. Another interesting point he made—and I must boil these down to space—that out of every $10 worth of food bought in Britain $9.50 is controlled. Price stabilization is fundamental to the British system of food control.

* * * * *

One of the greatest of all discoveries in bacteria killing drugs, penicillin, a miracle for war wounds, and which will also be invaluable in peacetime, is to be produced in Toronto and Montreal in Dominion government financed plants, employing 250 men and women. The initial contract is for 26 billion units largest single order for medical supplies placed by Munitions department. The plants will be in operation by February, 1941 and by mid-April a weekly average production of 500 million units is expected. Penicillin has certain qualities superior to sulfa drugs. It is produced through growth of a mould, similar to that you'll find on cheese. When you hear of billions of units, don't think there will be enough right away to serve all humanity, I am told that in difficult cases it takes between two and three million units of penicillin, so figure it out that way.

Getting less publicity than the Navy Army or Air Force, but nevertheless worthy of the highest praise and respect of the people are Canada's Merchant Seamen. They are a numerous lot too, judging by the fact that 40,500 are certified to date in the central registry in Ottawa. Casualties from merchant ships of Canadian registry alone: 660 missing and presumed dead; 147 captured by the enemy and now prisoners of war.

* * * * *

Interesting note to farmers: A ton of timothy hay contains about 18 pounds of nitrogen, 6 1/2 pounds of phosphoric acid, and around 30 lbs. of potash. This is rather more than would be returned to the land by a ton of ordinary green farmyard manure. If no fertilizers were applied, continuous cropping of timothy would rapidly deplete the soil, the same is true in a general way of other grasses, the Department of Agriculture states.

Where does the national coffer get its filling? Part of it is from excise and income tax. During the month of August just past, for instance, the "take" was $201,615,800 as compared with $160,392,837 in the same month last year, which is about a 20 per cent increase. Of this amount income

SCHOOL DAYS — MORE WORK

Hello Homemakers! Every mother has more ironing and pressing to do during school terms. No matter how simple a method we give you, the pile of laundry after a big wash is not diminished.

If you want your clothes to keep their shape and be easy to iron, put the dresses and blouses on clothes hangers and fuss with them a bit, so that they will dry smooth and straight.

Button the buttons, zip the zippers, straighten the seams, pockets and collar, and you all but iron the dresses. Be kind enough to hang them in the shade, so they keep their even colour. Then when they are taken from the line fold them and stash in a basket instead of crumpling. It is a

By Renée Shann

CHAPTER V

Jane, a fashion artist, shares an apartment in London with Stella, a free lance journalist. Jane joins the WAAF. The night before entering the service she walks through dim streets and collides with a flight lieutenant of the RAF. She accepts his invitation to dinner but refuses to see him again. Her training flight is assigned to an airfield where the lieutenant is stationed. Meeting by accident, he asks her to marry him. She agrees to dine with him later in London. Stopping to break her engagement with Stella she discovers that the lieutenant, Timothy Poel Sanders — nicknamed "Tips" — is Stella's divorced husband. She meets Tips at Kettner's. Hearing that Tips may soon fly over Germany, Jane tries to see him but hides when he enters a car with Mrs. Iris Stanton, wife of Guy Stanton, another RAF flyer who is also watching the couple.

Hunter looked at her reproachfully. "I like that! I'm only telling you two under the strictest secrecy. Why shouldn't I tell you two? You've promised not to say anything to anyone else."

"That's not the point. The point is . . . Sparks looked at Hunter and wondered if it would be sheer waste of breath to try and make her see what she was doing. She said to Jane later that afternoon when they were preparing to snatch a few hours' sleep prior to going on duty at midnight: "You know, if we did our duty we'd report Hunter."

"I know. But it would mean an awful row."

"Of course it would. And so it should. Remember how we were all sworn to say nothing? That girl's a public danger. She knows too much and she talks too much. And how that silly young fool Jimmie Stafford can have been such a nitwit as to tell her what he did I simply can't imagine."

Jane couldn't either. But she wasn't caring about Jimmie Stafford. She was worrying terribly about Tips and wondering when the "something big" was coming off. She wished suddenly from the very bottom of her heart that she'd not been quite so strong-minded about him. After all, that night they'd dined together at Kettner's—the night after she'd seen Stella—she'd made up her mind to quite different course of action. Then she'd decided to see him just as often as she could but to make sure that she never took him seriously or allowed him to hurt her. Instead he had been the one who was going to be hurt one day. She'd throw caution to the winds.

But she hadn't seen him often. Nothing but little fleeting moments with him had come her way for the last two or three weeks and now tonight it made her feel no happier to realize that they had been only by her own choosing. She glanced across at Sparks who was sleeping peacefully.

Very quietly she swung her legs over the side of the bed and, stooping, found her shoes and put them on. She slid into her skirt, shirt and tunic and found her big coat and cap. Very quietly she opened the door. She slipped out and sped swiftly across toward the officers' quarters, uncertain how she would set about finding Tips, but determined that in some way she would let him know she was there and wanting to see him.

There were ears outside the officers' mess. She could see men moving about in the comfortably furnished room. She walked up and down wondering what to do next, scared that at any moment one of the WAAF officers might see her and ask her what she was doing.

Then the door of the officers' mess opened. In the light shed from within she saw Iris Stanton and Tips come down the steps and walk toward her which was very near where Jane was standing. Instinctively she drew back into the shadows, sharp tears slinging her eyes and a dreadful feeling of desolation filling her heart. They passed quite close to her. She heard Tips say, "What about Guy? Shouldn't we wait for him?"

She gave a light rejoinder to this. "He can't come yet. He's working this evening. Come on, Tips. Get in." And a little reproachfully, "Darling, you didn't used to take quite a lot of persuading."

It seemed he didn't take a great deal now. He got into the car and a moment later Jane heard the purr of the engine. She watched them drive with increasing speed down the long asphalt road leading from the main buildings. Then she turned and would have moved swiftly away, but she stopped short. A man was standing a few paces from her. His eyes were on the retreating car, his brows were drawn together. In a flash she recognized Guy Stanton, the husband who, Hunter suggested, was so absorbed in his work that he was oblivious to what his wife was up to.

Iris Stanton sipped her orange juice and recalled the time when she'd breakfasted glutonously. Now she knew better. Orange juice and dry toast was her early morning diet. Lunch was a skimpy meal, too. It was a dinner that she dared let herself eat anything. Even then she had to be careful. Tips had said last night, jokingly of course: "You know, Iris, if you don't look out you'll be getting fat. Better not do that, I don't like fat women."

She'd laughed and told him he needn't worry. "I'm the skinny kind, Tips. I always have been." But she felt a little uneasy.

She looked across the table at her husband, who was forty-five and in her opinion looked nearer fifty. Their eyes met at that moment and she said irritably: "Why the blazes don't you eat something?"

"You know I loathe breakfast."

Guy grunted. "You used not to."

She glanced at the clock and then at her husband. "Aren't you going to be late?" She asked mildly.

Guy Stanton's eyes narrowed. "Anxious to get rid of me?"

"Not particularly."

Guy glared at her. He wished from the bottom of his heart he wasn't still in love with her. Quite passionately he knew she wasn't worth it. He pushed back his chair angrily and, turning reached for his pipe and tobacco pouch from the mantelpiece behind him.

"About Tips," he began aggressively, filling the bowl of his pipe as he spoke. "You know, Iris, I've stood for a good deal, but I'm not going to have you always around with that fellow. People will begin to talk again as they talked before. And that's no good to you, to Tips or to me."

Iris laughed shortly. "That's absurd. Who's talking about me anyway?"

"A great many people soon will be if you take to inviting Tips here when you're alone. I tell you I won't stand for it."

Iris rocked gently backward and forward on her heels and her toes. She was deciding that perhaps it would be foolish to have a real row with Guy over Tips, at any rate while she was so uncertain of him. She said gently, rather like a mother speaking to a refractory child, "You know you're being awfully stupid, Guy."

He came round the table and stood close to her, looking down at her. He wished he could be sure she was speaking the truth. He said, "I'm only jealous because I'm so much in love with you."

Iris braced herself. Didn't he know that all she wanted was to be left alone? All the same, as suddenly he held her close, she remained in his arms for a moment though the longing to drag herself fiercely away was almost too much for her. Only when he bent his head and tried to kiss her did she laughingly protest, "No, Guy, please!"

His arms fell away from her. "Sometimes I wonder if you care a darn about me."

She didn't answer. If she were so much as to open her mouth she knew she'd tell him the truth.

"Or if you'd mind in the least if I went off on one of these stunts and never returned," he went on. "I hadn't meant to tell you, but since you're my wife I suppose I may as well though you must keep it to yourself. There's a big show coming on, far bigger than anything we've undertaken before. And if it means anything to you I doubt very much whether any of us will return—either I or Tips Poel-Sanders for that matter."

He turned on his heel and strode from the room, banging the front door behind him.

There had been a letter from Stella this morning that had decided Jane, since she had a few hours off duty to make a flying visit to London. She wouldn't have very long, but at least she'd find out if Stella were really as worried as her letter had sounded.

Jane took a bus to Piccadilly, assuring herself that it was good to be in London again, even though it was a wartime London.

The doorman at Duke Street gave her a brisk salute. "Nice to see you again, miss."

"Nice to see you, Evans. No bombs yet?"

Evans laughed this to scorn. "No,

ing. One never knows what's round the corner."

Jane knew that this cut both ways. Sometimes it was pleasant to be sure of one's bread and butter. She prayed that there was nothing or no one unpleasant round Stella's particular corner. She said a little unhappily, I feel awfully guilty at having left you in the lurch like this."

Stella looked at her in genuine distress. "Darling, that's just ridiculous. There's no reason why two of us should be in a mess. Oh, don't let's spend our time talking about me! Let's be cheerful. Have some more tea. Try one of these buns. Do you get cake for tea at the airdrome?"

Jane helped herself to a bun. "Yes, darling. The C.O. makes them for us twice a week. No, my pet, don't be silly. We get the oddest things for tea. Please pudding sometimes."

Jane shuddered. "Oh, my Lord! Thank heaven I'm not in the Air Force!"

"I wish you were. It would be grand if we were together. If . . ."

She stopped short suddenly. She had been going to say: "If we were both down on the station together." But that might open up a difficult line of thought and might bring the conversation round to Tips.

Tips! Jane thought of him suddenly from quite a different angle. Tips had his own car and plenty of money; more than he knew what to do with, judging from the lavish way he spent it. And Stella was worried to death because she was badly hit by the war and from the look of things unable to make any money. It struck her suddenly as being all wrong. Why shouldn't Tips do something for Stella? Doubtless he'd want to if he knew she was seriously up against it. She thought of all the women divorced from their husbands who lived comfortably on their alimony. The trouble was Stella's stubborn pride. Jane looked at Stella and decided to take a chance. "Hit me on the head if you like for what I'm going to say, but I've got to say it. Considering that Tips seems to have far more than his share of money, I don't quite see why he shouldn't be told you're finding things difficult. Oh," as she saw Stella change color, "I know we weren't going to discuss this but you let me tell him you and I are friends?"

Stella said angrily, "If you tell Tips one single thing about me I'll leave this flat and never let you know where I am. I don't want to see him again, ever!"

Jane, head bent, hands in her pockets, collided with Tips a second time and with almost as much force. He held her for a moment to steady her. Then he let her go. He said, "It's four days since I've even had a glimpse of you. Darling, this is the first evening I've had free for a week. Would you spend it with me?"

She looked at him. Then she withdrew her arm. "No. No, she wouldn't be told herself firmly, fighting against a very real urge to fall in with this suggestion. "No, I can't, Tips. I'm on duty at ten," she said firmly, as if that settled it.

"That's all right. It's barely seven now. I'll get you back in plenty of time."

"No."

He gripped her arms. He shook her half-playfully, half in earnest. "Listen to me. Why won't you ever come out with me?"

Jane lied convincingly: "Because I don't want to."

"You don't really care a darn for me?"

"No."

He stood looking down at her, his eyes searching her face in the dim light. A bleak depression held Jane. She wished from the very bottom of her heart that she'd never met him. She wondered what was the matter with her. Why hadn't she the courage to do what she wanted and spend the evening with him? Why hang back? Why bother about Iris Stanton? But she was bothering, so much that she said, a sharp edge to her

LET'S BE DOING

... while we're planning

• Everybody is thinking a great deal about the future these days . . . planning . . . getting ready for the period to follow the war. All realize that the war may bring surprises—but the tide is turning in our favour.

Chemists and engineers, producing things needed for war, are making discoveries which will mean comforts and conveniences for all of us when peace comes. New methods of making things, new processes, new materials, now being filed away in blue prints and formulae, will bring us many new and useful articles. Many things not available now will be replaced by better models and designs.

You may have plans for a new home, remodelling your present home, new home furnishings. If you are a farmer you will need new and improved equipment and machinery.

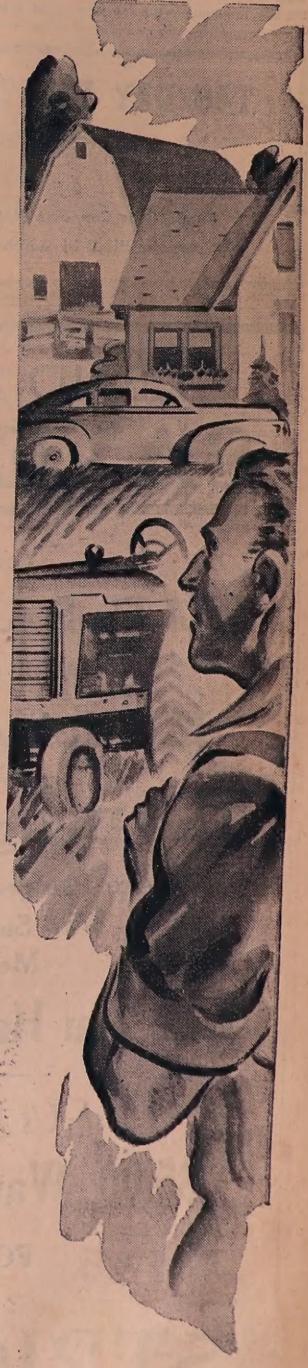

Now, while you are thinking and planning, you can do something to insure that your plans can be carried out. Victory Bonds—which can be bought on convenient instalments, with money as you get it—provide a means of keeping your savings intact, earmarked for things you want.

Most Canadians are saving money. Most of us are buying Victory Bonds and when we buy Victory Bonds we are helping to win the war. We are helping to speed the day of victory and we are doing something that will benefit ourselves.

WHAT IS A VICTORY BOND?

A VICTORY BOND is the promise of the Dominion of Canada to repay in cash the face value of the Bond on the date of maturity with half-yearly interest until that time. A Victory Bond is the safest investment in Canada backed by the entire resources of the Dominion. Canada has been issuing bonds for 75 years, and has never failed to pay every dollar of principal and interest when due. A Victory Bond is an asset readily marketable at any time.

voice and a gleam in her eyes: "If I won't dine with you, I take it you won't necessarily spend a lonely evening?"

His face cleared. "So that's it, is it? You're jealous of Iris."

"Oh, don't be silly! Of course I'm not jealous."

His hands came down on her shoulders. "You are, but you haven't the honesty to admit it either to yourself or to me. Well, that's all right with me. I'll wait. One day you'll come to your senses. But I'm sick of grovelling and scrapping and begging you to come out with me. Next time you and I go places together it will be because you ask me. And maybe I'll throw a fit of temperament then and say I don't want to."

With this he was gone, striding angrily away from her toward his car parked outside the main building. He drove swiftly away and turned in the direction of Stretton. Blast the girl! he thought bitterly. Blast all women!

Then he paused, found a coin and in the light from the dashboard tossed it. "Heads you go to town alone. Tails you drop in to see Iris."

It came down tails. He tried again and it was tails a second time. He drew up outside Iris' door and tooted the horn. In a moment she was beside the car. "Aren't you coming in?"

"I don't know. I don't think so. I thought you might like to come up to town and have dinner with me."

Iris said she would and then decided that she wouldn't. It was a rotten night for a twenty-mile drive.

"We'll soon get there."

"Not in a blackout. No, come in and have some food with me. I'm all alone. Guy's not coming back till God knows what hour. There's some cold chicken and a salad. Alice is out but she's left everything ready."

Tips hesitated. Food, he decided, didn't really interest him.

"And there's plenty to drink," went on Iris encouragingly.

In Hymen's Bonds

SINE - ELLIOTT

A pretty Autumn wedding was solemnized at seven p.m., on Saturday, September 25, in West Huntingdon United Church, when Rev. Oscar Wager united in marriage Queena Marguerite Elliott, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elliott, of West Huntingdon, to George Arthur Sine, only son of Mrs. Thos. Sine and the late Mr. Sine of Harold.

The church was attractively decorated with pink and white streamers, potted plants and gladioli.

Miss Georgia Pitman presided at the piano and Mrs. Thos. Sine, aunt of the bride, sang, "God has Made Two Hearts as One."

Given in marriage by her father the bride was becomingly attired in a floor-length gown of white organza over satin; studded with gold sequins and fashioned with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, full skirt and long sleeves coming to a point at the wrist. She wore a rayon net appliqued and embroidered veil, caught to her hair with a coronet of orange blossoms and falling behind in a slight train. She carried a bouquet of cream coloured Sunshine asters.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Amos Carson, of Toronto, as matron of honor, who was lovely in a floor-length gown of pink flowered organza over satin; with shirred, bodice, square neckline full skirt and elbow length sleeves. She wore a shoulder-length veil of pink net and carried a bouquet of matching chrysanthemum asters.

The bridesmaid, Miss Ada Sine of Harold, sister of the groom, and Miss Della McMaster, of Ivanhoe, were attired in blue and mauve dresses of the same material as that of the matron of honor and fashioned alike with shirred bodices, square necklines, full skirts and elbow length sleeves and carried bouquets of pastel chrysanthemum asters.

Miss Mary Elliott was her sister's flower girl, wearing a floor-length dress of yellow crepe, fashioned on torso lines with square neckline and ruffles of lace. She wore the bride's gift, a yellow gold locket with mother-of-pearl centre and carried a basket of forget-me-nots.

Mr. George Runnalls, of Harold, cousin of the groom, acted as best man and the ushers were Mr. Charles Stapley of Madoc Jct., and Mr. Amos Carson of Toronto, brother-in-law of the bride.

The wedding supper was served at the bride's home to one hundred guests by Misses Jayne Gay, Muriel Thompson, Marjorie Hammond, Helen Kirk and Shirley Reynolds, assisted by Mrs. Melville Donnan, Mrs. Clifford Green and Mrs. Elmer Post.

Receiving with the bridal party were the bride's mother attired in a black pin-striped suit with black and white accessories and corsage of mauve asters.

The mother of the groom, wearing a gown of black wool crepe with gold trimmings; black accessories and corsage of mauve asters.

The bride's gift to her attendants, soloist and pianist were colored cut-glass salad bowls; the groom's gift to the bride was a silver tea service; to the best man, a leather billfold, and to the ushers, gold tie-bars.

For their wedding trip to Toronto and Niagara, the bride chose a grey tailored suit with black accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Upon their return they will reside at Harold.

Guests were present from Toronto, Belleville, Carmel, Consecon, Stirling, Madoc, Dundas, Marmora, and Spring Brook.

COONEY - FRY

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at St. Andrew's Presbyterian church, Burnbrae, on Wednesday of last week, when Annie Leora Fry, eldest daughter of Mrs. Fry and the late William Fry, was united in marriage to Howard E. Cooney, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Cooney, Stirling. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Donald McKay.

The bride looked lovely in a gown of chenille embroidered satin with sweetheart neckline and long tight sleeves. Her finger tip veil was of silk net and her only ornament was a three-strand string of pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Miss Bernice Fry, of Belleville, was her sister's bridesmaid, and she wore a pale blue chenille embroidered taffeta gown with shoulder-length veil of matching shade. She carried a bouquet of pink roses. The groom was ably assisted by his brother, Mr. Lloyd Cooney.

Following the ceremony a luncheon was served at the bride's home at which the guests were members of the immediate families. Later the bride and groom left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and other points west. For travelling the bride wore a salmon pink wool jersey dress with brown accessories and corsage of Talisman roses.

HONEY RATIONS NOW DOUBLED

Under this revised ration, coupons D4 and D5, which were scheduled to become valid Oct. 15, are valid today.

One "D" coupon is good for 14 oz. of corn, cane or blended table syrup instead of the previous 12 ounces. The coupon value for maple syrup is increased from 10 ounces to 12 ounces.

R. A. MASON'S DIVINE SERVICE

We are all sinful and erring creatures and stand in need of mercy. Mercy is that blessed quality of life that has the approbation of heaven and earth. "It blesseth him who gives as well as him who receives." As Royal Arch Masons you will cheerfully embrace this grand quality. Try to keep it at its highest and best. Never let it degenerate into sickly sentiment, temper mercy with justice and justice with mercy.

In the third place we have religion. Justice and mercy are man's duty to man, but to this Prophet religion was not just a hash of cold morality. So he takes step higher and brings us to religion, and these three, justice, mercy, and religion give us the perfect ideal of religion. For these lead us to Jehovah—God the fountain and source of all Perfection.
